DRIVERS ASKED TO CAST VOTES ON LEFT TURNS

Post Referendum Seeks to Find Motorist's Views on Puzzle.

HARLAND IS WILLING TO CHANGE SYSTEM

Three Optional Methods Are Offered to City Auto Owners.

ONE WOULD SWITCH TRAFFIC TO CENTER

Pedestrians Are Thought Of in Trio of New Plans Proposed Here.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.
What left turn shall be substituted for the present rotary one in Washington or are those who favor the existing regulation sufficiently numerous to justify its retention.
Recognizing that there exists a keen public opinion on this most agitated of traffic subjects, The Post, which yesterday recorded the willingness of Traffic Director William H. Harland to change the present rule, in cooperation with the traffic office, has prepared a ballot by which the individual motorist or pedestrian may voice his favor for one of three methods of making left turns.

Three Methods Offered.
First, the present rotary system in effect here under which the motorist turning left pulls over to the right of the intersection and waits for a change in the traffic signal lights or the officer's signal.
Second, that of driving to the center lane and completing the turn from there on the green light or go signal from the officer.
Third, that of driving to the center of the street and completing the turn against the red or stop signal to the left.

The latter two turns, especially the third, are the most widely used. The flexibility of the Hoover conference's model municipal traffic ordinance approves of either while at the same time it frowns upon the rotary turn as employed in the National Capital.

Thoughtful Study Urged.
It is assumed that before casting his ballot the individual will give thoughtful study to all three methods. A symposium of the arguments pro and con, with regard to all three methods should be helpful to him in this connection.

The present left turn method in Washington which aroused the storm of protest that based Director Harland's willingness to change the regulation is generally criticized on its failure to conform to the Nation-wide demand for uniformity. In using it, it has been pointed out, Washington stands virtually alone. Another vigorous argument against the turn has been that, as between various intersections in the city, there is no uniformity in the manner of making left turns.

At a controlled intersection, for instance, the turn is made from the right lane. Where there is no traffic light nor policeman the turn is made from the center of the thoroughfare. The result has been endless confusion and danger over a period of more than a year, opponents of the method declare.

Critics Cite Logic Lack.

Critics of the system have not been content, however, to stand upon these two points alone. They have argued that the method is illogical in that it shunts both right and left turning traffic into a single lane with all the attendant delay and blocking that naturally follows, especially in the hours of congestion. Further, they cite the fact that pedestrians are constantly driven from their haven of safety, the crosswalk, because it has been invaded by motorists making left turns.

In defense of the turn, on the other hand, it is pointed out that a great many motorists have accustomed themselves to it and that substitution of some other method would necessitate reeducation of a large number. This argument is answered, however, by the statement that turning from the center of the thoroughfare is the simple, natural way, familiarity with which is innate in virtually all drivers.

Advantages Held Over.

With reference to the second method of turning listed upon the ballot—the alternative toward which Director Harland is most kindly disposed—its advantages are held to be the obverse of the rotary turn disadvantages. In the first place, it is in consonance with the trend

Former President Calvin Coolidge who now writes pieces for the magazines at $2 a word, called in some 50 newspaper reporters yesterday and gave them a $2,000 interview.

In this, his first formal press conference since he left the White House, the man from Northampton scorned the use of a spokesman and spoke with a freedom and profanity that astounded his interviewers. In the ten minutes or so that he talked, he allowed 1,000 of his $2 verbal jewels to fall.

As a matter of fact, Coolidge interviewed himself. Anticipating the questions that would be asked him, he answered all of them in one uninterrupted statement, and when he had concluded that the interview was over.

He said that, while he was glad to be back in Washington among

Special to The Washington Post.
Richmond, Va., July 24.—The hearing on the proposed increase in freight rates on agricultural lime, ground limestone and marl before the State Corporation Commission on petition of the railroads was of short duration and resulted in the withdrawal of the petition by the attorney for the railroads.

The railroads, in their petition, did not include the points named in the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, namely, Riverton, Strasburg, Staunton, Eagle Rock, Ripplemead and Indian Rock, for reasons, as stated by the attorney for the railroads, he was of the opinion that the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission was paramount and that the State Corporation Commission has no jurisdiction.

Further, that it was the intention of the railroads to put into effect the Tokyo, July 24 (A.P.).—The day of the Kellogg renunciation of war pact ceremonies in Washington brought Manchuria new hopes of peace in a definite offer of Russians and Chinese alike to discontinue the war clouds hanging over the Far East for the past fortnight.

Despite the diplomatic rupture between Russia and China, Soviet Consul General Melnikov, of Harbin, met Chang Tso-Hsiang, chief lieutenant of Governor Chang Hsueh-Liang, of Manchuria, and head of the Kirin provincial government, in a conference at Changchun.

The conference was regarded as a significant approach to direct negotiations between Russia and China for a peaceful settlement of the controversy over the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Tories Worry Over National Safety and Possible Unemployment.

London, July 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Important reductions in the British naval program were announced by Premier Ramsay MacDonald in the House of Commons today during the first statement on Anglo-American naval negotiations which he read as a cabinet paper to parliament after its terms had been discussed with Ambassador Charles Daves in No. 10 Downing street before the house met.

The Labor benches greeted with cheers and the Tories heard in silence MacDonald's declaration that work will be suspended on the two 10,000-ton cruisers Surrey and Northumberland already laid down in government dockyards by the late Baldwin ministry as part of the 1923 program. That two submarines will be canceled and dockyard work reduced at once and that no start will be made on the 1929 program providing for two more Washington cruisers and many smaller ships, at any rate before "further examination" in the autumn.

It was hinted but not directly stated by MacDonald that this concrete peace gesture was to help in the Anglo-American negotiations now in progress.

Tories Ask About Effects.

A fire of Tory questions was directed at the premier when he laid down the document. These concerned two main points, whether the government, in scrapping these ships, had overridden the admiralty's expert demands in the name of national safety, and what effect suspension of so much work would have upon employment.

MacDonald informed the House of his prospective visit to President Hoover in Washington, naming October as a "likely month" for it. He also laid down the general procedure which he believes the naval negotiations with America will take, making it clear that up to the present other naval powers have not been party to the discussions, although in answer to anxious questions from former Premier Lloyd George he said he has been seeing the ambassadors of other nations.

Lloyd George seemed worried at the "one-sidedness" of purely Anglo-American discussions.

Premier States Policy.

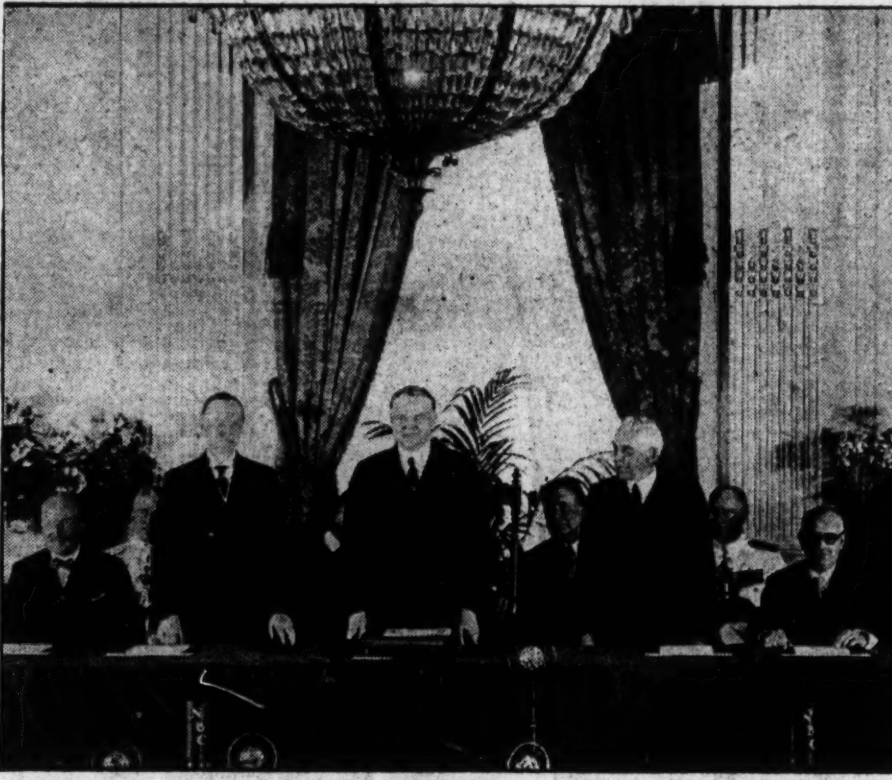

In his opening statement MacDonald said the government's policy is that national armaments must be devised with two main considerations in view, the chances of their having to be used, and their efficiency.

"Changes of policy effected by the peace pact," the premier implied, "alone justify naval reduction to help make the pact an effective influence in international politics."

275TH HOUR PASSED BY REFUEL AVIATORS

St. Louis Men, in Good Spirits, Confident of Spending 13 Days in Air.

MOTOR HUMS SMOOTHLY

St. Louis, July 24 (A.P.).—Without visible signs of faltering, the monoplane St. Louis Robin and its sturdy pilots, Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brien, drove on toward new fame tonight as they neared the end of their twelfth day of sustained flight.

They had left the old endurance record of the Angeleno more than a full day behind them. The fliers, in good spirits, were confident of passing the 300-hour mark. They hope to keep going 500 hours. It was to be a test to the finish between the stamina of man and motor. At 6:17 p. m. they had been up 275 hours.

The motor seemed to observers of the flight to be droning smoothly, despite Jackson's statement today that several cylinders "act like they had the toothache."

For each hour they reeled off in excess of the former record Jackson and O'Brien were assured of receiving $110, and tonight they had earned more than $3,000. "They'll never come down," one of their ruddies commented. The money was to be paid by St. Louis firms and the makers of the Challenger motor, with which the plane is powered.

The plane swung in wide circles about Lambert-St. Louis Field throughout the day at a measured speed of about 60 miles an hour, and continued over its path tonight. The fliers have remained within view of persons at the field continuously since breaking the record yesterday. Rules governing such contests require the landing must be made at the same field from which the start was made, and the fliers are taking no chances.

Upon passing its 275th hour the St. Louis Robin had traveled more than 16,000 miles, consumed more than 2,300 gallons of gasoline, over 105 gal-

TEXT OF HOOVER NOTE ON NAVIES

(Associated Press.)

The complete text of President Hoover's statement yesterday on naval disarmament was as follows:

"I have read with real satisfaction the statement which the prime minister has made in the House of Commons. The American people are greatly complimented by his proposed visit and he will find a universal welcome."

"Mr. MacDonald's statement marks a new departure in discussion of naval disarmament. The prime minister introduces the principle of parity which we have now adopted and its consummation means that Great Britain and the United States henceforth are not to compete in armaments as potential opponents, but to cooperate as friends in the reduction of it. The prime minister has stated clearly and unmistakably the principles on which he is acting. I can not but be responsive to the generous terms in which he has spoken of the attitude and purpose of the United States. We join in his efforts in the same spirit."

"Mr. MacDonald has indicated the good will and positive intention of the British government by suspension of construction of certain portions of this year's British naval program. It is the desire of the United States to show equal good will in our approach to the problem."

"We have three cruisers in this year's construction program which have been undertaken in the Government navy yards, the detailed drawings for which are now in course of preparation. The actual keels would, in the ordinary course, be laid down some time this fall. Generally speaking, Hubbub of Technicians Mars Pact Rites; Talk Is Not Put on Air.

LACK OF SIGNAL BLAMED

The Kellogg peace pact, another instrument designed to develop a peace consciousness on earth, was promulgated in the east room of the White House yesterday in an atmosphere wholly in fitting with modern American life.

There was the steady rat-tat of cameras like machine gunfire, a hubbub of conversation of perspiring men working at the business of recording impressive occasions and over all the booming voices of radio announcers, the whole completely drowning out President Hoover's words.

The diplomat seated around him in horseshoe fashion could not hear although they strained their ears. And certainly no one outside the east room could hear because the radio people forgot or rather did not cut the President on the air.

The effect of the treaty is not diminished one whit by the conditions that attended its promulgation, of course. But the ceremony was designed to impress the peoples of the world with peace, to call it again to their attention, so to speak, to awe them with the majesty of state that was behind it, a solemnity, a profundity, something that they would not soon forget.

But all the peoples of the world heard yesterday just after high noon was one broadcaster in particular telling of the number of diplomats he knew "I see my old friend, the minister from—" he would say, "and here is my old friend, the ambassador from—" while the President

LONDON PEACE MOVE GETS QUICK RESPONSE

2 Outstanding Gestures Made as War Ban Goes in Effect.

EXECUTIVE PLEASED BY PREMIER'S ACTION

Competition Is Eliminated by Adoption of Parity Principle, He Says.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.
The spirit of the Kellogg peace pact, promulgated yesterday in the historic east room of the White House by President Hoover, found quick response in reduction of armament moves by two governments, Great Britain and the United States.

Even as the diplomats of the many nations were preparing to go to the White House word came that Premier MacDonald was effecting reductions in this year's naval building program. President Hoover went through the ceremony attendant upon the promulgation of the pact and after a subsequent lunch, went back to his executive offices for some quick and profound thought.

As a result, he met the MacDonald gesture late in the afternoon with the announcement that work on the construction of three cruisers authorized in this year's program would be held up. They are the three of the five cruisers for which Congress appropriated at the last regular session. Navy yards were to do the work. The blue prints already are in the course of preparation and as the President said in his announcement, "the actual keels would in the ordinary course, be laid some time this fall."

Effect to Be Considered.

"Generally speaking," the President continued, "the British cruiser strength considerably exceeds American strength at the present time and the actual construction of these cruisers would not be likely in themselves to produce inequality in the naval result."

"We do not wish, however, to have any misunderstanding of our actions and therefore we shall not lay these keels until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity which we expect to reach, although our hopes of relief from construction lie more largely in the latter years of the program under the law of 1923."

The President's statement does not affect the two other cruisers appropriated for. They were allotted to private shipyards and the contracts for them already have been let. Presumably this is the reason the work on them was not also held up.

The cruiser legislation gave the President authority to suspend the building program in whole or in part in the event of a naval agreement. It was something that was granted begrudgingly by the big navy people, but the then President Coolidge insisted upon it and with the assistance of men like Senator Borah, of Idaho, he had his way.

There may or may not be some question as to the President's authority to suspend building in anticipation of an agreement.

Rescue on Mount Rainier Wins Ranger U. S. Citation

Department of Interior's First Recognition for Heroism Accorded by Wilbur to Charles B. Browne; Risked Life for Mountain Climbers.

Secretary Wilbur issued the first citation for heroism in the history of the Department of the Interior yesterday in honoring Park Ranger Charles B. Browne, of the Mount Rainier National Park, for his rescue work and recovery of bodies of a party of mountain climbers who on July 7 fell into a crevasse at high altitude.

"The party, consisting of six members, while returning from the summit in adverse weather and fog conditions, fell into a crevasse with resulting injury to four and death to two," declared Secretary Wilbur in the citation. "One member succeeded in reaching Camp Muir, where Ranger Browne was on a fire-look-out duty. Ranger Browne at once sent for assistance and, though improperly shod and without equipment for ice work, proceeded to the scene of the accident.

"He is directly responsible for saving the life of one member by assisting him to a point where he could proceed to Camp Muir alone. Two other members succeeded in making their way to Camp Muir, Ranger Browne, without assistance, and in the face of a raging blizzard, returned to search for the two missing members."

"After two hours of the most difficult and dangerous ice work he found one of them, apparently dying. Ranger Browne made several attempts to carry this injured man up the steep ice slope, but failed. Before leaving him to go for help he took precautions to keep him from further

BLAST STARTS FIRE, PANIC NEAR BERLIN

Oxygen Tanks Burst; 50
Companies Bring Blaze
Under Control.

FLYING DEBRIS MENACE

Berlin, July 24 (A.P.)—Fifty Berlin companies tonight brought under control one of the worst fires in the history of the German capital has known in years. It had raged five and one-half hours.

The entire industrial suburb of Bornsow was thrown into panic by a series of terrific explosions in the United Oxygen Works which began at noon. Fire broke out after the first explosion.

The detonations could be heard in Berlin and brought thousands of workers running from factories and homes in flight to the scene.

Flying Fragments Damage.

Flying fragments of oxygen containers caused damage within a wide radius of the oxygen works. Clouds of smoke enveloped the nearby suburban section as the fire spread to the Linden Artificial Ice Co.

At least two workmen were believed to have perished in the explosion, twelve were known to be injured and others had been rushed by ambulance to Berlin hospitals. Tonight it was impossible to make an exact check on casualties.

According to one workman's story, the first explosion occurred when a tank filled with acetylene burst as it was being carried from a workshop in the United works.

Steel Container Upset.

It was also said a big steel container had fallen over while being refilled, its contents coming into contact with fire. A 300-foot flame blew out of the container. Explosions followed from other steel containers.

No coherent account of the disaster was obtainable early in the evening. Police drew aordon around the danger zone to keep out spectators. Telephone communication with Berlin was cut off. When the flames got the flames under control danger to nearby factories, including the plant of the American General Motors, was checked. Many of the factories, however, had their walls cracked as though by an earthquake.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

WHEN President Hoover and Premier MacDonald get through raising one another in their naval limitations game it will be plenty of time to discuss Mr. Coolidge's visit to our midst. His reception of newspaper men in the Willard Hotel will long afford a subject for comment, not his reception, but what he said to them.

Mr. Coolidge has never been a talkative man and when he was in the White House he usually fell back on the Official Spokesman for what he did have to say. His famous "I do not choose" statement was about the most important statement he ever made in the first person.

But from his suite in the Willard he sent for the Washington correspondents and for a stenographer. Then he stood up and talked. It was a self-conducted interview. He anticipated virtually every question that might be asked of him and when he was through began ushering his guests out of the room so quickly they did not have time to cover any ground that he had not.

THERE were some hasty suggestions that the former President had not out of political life. There would seem to be some reason that he came all the way to Washington to give out the first statement he has made since he left office. He explained this in a way by saying very frankly that he did not wish to deal with other than Washington newspaper men. They are better trained, he said. Other public men have said this, so there may be something to it after all. The Washington newspaper men, however, are not so much interested in what he has to say as they are in what he has to do. They are in other words, at that.

THREE NEW JERSEY BANKS ARE CLOSED

Capital Impaired $300,000;
"Situation Chaotic," Is Official's Report.

TWO MORE IN FLORIDA

Passaic, N. J., July 24 (A.P.)—The Hobart Trust Co., beset by many difficulties during the past year, was closed with its two branches, the Passaic Trust Co. and the Merchants Bank today by the State Department of Banking and Insurance. Frank H. Smith, commissioner of the banking department, ordered the suspension of the bank's activities upon the discovery of an impairment of capital to the extent of $300,000.

The situation is "chaotic," Smith said, "the department will proceed to collect and start paying off depositors as soon as possible."

The Passaic Clearing House issued a statement expressing the belief the depositors would suffer no loss.

The directors of the New Jersey Bankers Securities Co., holding concern which controls the three institutions, convened at Jersey City after a hastily called meeting this evening, to consider the situation.

United States Senator Edward I. Edwards is head of the holding company, along with the Hobart Trust Co., one of its earliest acquisitions and most valuable assets, which has been much in the news recently. The names of both were frequently mentioned in testimony given before the State legislative committee last year.

Henry N. Weinberger, former president of both the New Jersey Bankers Securities Co. and the Hobart Trust Co., who has been described by the court as "the genius who ran riot" with the funds of the New Jersey Bankers Securities Co., was present at the Jersey City meeting of the holding company.

Passaic, N. J., July 24 (A.P.)—The First National Bank of St. Augustine and the Phifer State Bank of Gainesville, having aggregate deposits of more than $1,000,000, were closed today because of excessive withdrawals and for the protection of depositors.

OPINION OF DRIVERS

toward uniformity. It keeps left turning traffic in what is argued to be its natural lane, that is to the center of the street. Doing so, it separates the various vehicular streams as modern scientific surveys almost unanimously suggest: namely, left turning traffic to the left, right turning traffic to the right and through traffic in the lane between.

Uniformity between intersections throughout the city is another product of this method which is held to be one of the most serious defects of the rotary turn. If traffic everywhere made its left turns from the center, instead of from the center to an intersection and from the right at the next, it is maintained that a tremendous degree of confusion would automatically be eliminated. Invasion of crosswalks in the direction of pedestrian movement at controlled intersections would be totally eliminated by turning leftward moving traffic from the center of the street, proportion of this method declines.

One Used Many Years.

This method of turning, it will be recalled, is the one that was used in Washington for so many years at intersections controlled by traffic lights. It is the method which has been used by the city of Washington for many years at intersections controlled by traffic lights. It is the method which has been used by the city of Washington for many years at intersections controlled by traffic lights.

The third method is the one which is most generally used throughout the country. Its advocates who include a majority of the city's traffic authorities declare that, in addition to keeping traffic segregated in different lanes, it has the advantage of keeping the vehicular line constantly moving. One objection to it in some quarters, however, is that it is a stop sign, which, this group says, tends to weaken that signal as a stop symbol.

When Boat Overturns

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 24.—Five boys between 12 and 16 years of age narrowly escaped being drowned in the James River, near Hopewell, yesterday by the capsizing of their boat.

They were rescued by three men who were returning from providing a boat for the boys. The boys were in a boat which had been in the water 30 minutes and had been futile efforts to obtain assistance from passing boats.

Two of the boys were so severely chilled that it was with difficulty they were gotten into the rescue boat.

ROGERS AND BRIDE IN CUSTOMS TANGLE

275TH HOUR PASSED
BY RECORD HOLDERS

Col. Rogers must appear at the customs house and allow Collector of the Port Philip Eiling to decide whether he and Mrs. Rogers, accompanied by Inspector Murphy, drove to the custom house and the matter was soon decided. Collector Eiling ruled that although Mrs. Rogers was a citizen she was a resident of Paris and allowed her to enter, exempt from customs duties on personal effects.

The baggage was ordered released, however, with the admonition that upon her next arrival in the United States Mrs. Rogers would be considered a resident and would be liable to customs duties.

Col. Rogers was recently divorced by his wife in Holland. The present Mrs. Rogers is the widow of Basil Miles, who was the American commissioner to the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris.

As the liner came up the bay Col. Rogers acted as the cordial host. "But," he said, "I have nothing whatever to say. I'm not running for sheriff this year."

As soon as their baggage was cleared—almost two hours after the liner had docked—Col. and Mrs. Rogers left, giving their destination as The Port of Missing Men, his Southampton home.

Man Slays Wife, Shoots Her Mother, Kills Self

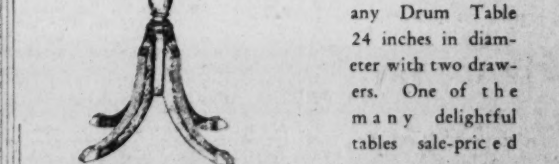

Salmon Falls, N. H., July 24 (A.P.)—Ernest Dupuis, 34, a mill worker, today shot and killed his wife, Mabel, 32, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Maude E. Dyer, 55, and then committed suicide by firing a shot into his head. The shooting occurred in the Dyer home, where Dupuis' wife had lived since she separated from her husband three years ago.

More than a year ago Dupuis was arrested for breaking and entering the Dyer home and served six months in jail for the offense. He did not disclose his reason for entering.

CONDITION OF ROAD
BLAMED IN SKIDDING

2 Marines, Returning From Dance, Are Victims as Car Turns Over.

Two men and a woman were fatally injured and two other persons seriously hurt in two automobile accidents near the Capital yesterday.

The dead are Mrs. Albin F. Knight, 39 years old, 3218 Thirteenth street northwest; Private John Manning, of Milwaukee, and A. T. Schmidt, of Salem, Ohio, stationed at the Marine Corps base at Quantico, Va. The injured are Miss Leg, Chiswell, of Dickerson, Md., and Private Kenneth A. Cover, of Youngstown, Ohio.

Starting from Washington early yesterday morning to drive to Binghamton, N. Y., where they were to attend a sorority convention, Mrs. Knight and her companion, Miss Chiswell, were just north of Harmony Grove on the Potomac-Tenney pike, when, in attempting to pass a truck their auto skidded off the road, crashed into a pole and overturned.

L. S. Rice, of Mountaineer, who was passing, rushed the women to the Frederick Hospital, where doctors declared Mrs. Knight had died instantly from a fractured skull. Miss Chiswell is badly bruised and was kept at the hospital. Physicians feared internal injuries.

The accident in which the two men were fatally injured occurred in Stafford County, Va., 7 miles south of Quantico, as the men were returning from a dance. Their auto, a Buick, was driven by a man named killing Manning, while Schmidt died a few hours later in the Marine Hospital. Cover is in the hospital suffering multiple bruises.

Mrs. Knight was formerly Miss Jacqueline Edes and had been married only last September. Her husband is a patent attorney, Justice Alton V. Bennett and State's Attorney William M. Stone, who investigated the accident, declared there was no reason to blame the truck driver, who stopped immediately after the wreck. The condition of the road caused the crash, these officials said.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Knight is survived by her father James H. Edes, of the Thirteenth street address, and a sister, Mrs. L. Wallis Allen, of El Dorado, Kans.

Special to The Washington Post.
Martinsburg, W. Va., July 24.—Charles Gutschall, 50, of Huntington, Pa., who has been supervising erection of a building for the Pennsylvania Glass Sand Co., at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., died en route to a local hospital last night from the effects of a shock of electricity received while placing an electric light bulb in a socket carrying 110 volts of electricity. The accident occurred in the new building. Fellow workers expressed the belief there was a short circuit in the socket and that Gutschall had his hand on the metal part of the socket at the time. He was rendered unconscious by the shock. The remains were sent to Huntington, Pa., this morning. A large family survives him.

Women Are Slain

Husbands Held for Grand Jury Action After Gun Killings.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., July 24.—Two killings have occurred in the vicinity of Warrenton within the last two days. On Sunday night Watson Pinn, colored, a taxi driver, is alleged to have shot and instantly killed Ethel Shepherd, also colored. The fatal wound was made with a single-barrel shotgun. The charge, entering high on the shoulder and taking a downward course, shattered the backbone which the woman's death was almost instantaneous. Pinn is now in the Fauquier County Jail at Warrenton, held without bail awaiting the action of the grand jury in September.

Stephens Addison, colored, Tuesday night shot and killed his wife, Rose Belle Addison, according to arresting officers. The woman also was shot with a single-barrel shotgun, the load taking effect in her left side just below the heart. She died in a few minutes. Addison offered no resistance and is lodged in the local jail here, awaiting the action of the grand jury. Both arrests were made by Sheriff Woolf, Sgt. Hedgepeth and State Officer Hall.

Considerable excitement is being evinced among the colored population over the dual shooting.

FREIGHT INCREASE

maximum scale prescribed in the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission from these points unless stopped from so doing by injunction proceedings. It was argued that the purpose of the carriers in their petition was to have the State Corporation Commission extend the proposed scale rates to all points in Virginia and that there was no need of including those points mentioned in the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

To this argument the attorneys representing the farmers and farmers' organizations of the State disented and argued that it was within the purview of the State Corporation Commission to fix the proper scale of rates, based upon the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, from all points within the State, including those named in the order of the Federal Commission.

The State Corporation Commission sustained the position of the attorneys representing the farmers and farmers' organizations and ruled that these points, namely, Riverston, Strasburg, Eagle Rock, Ripplemead, Staunton and Indian Rock, should be included in their petition and proposed schedule of tariffs filed with their petition. As a result, the railroad withdrew their petition. The question is now in suspension, awaiting the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission on petition of the State Corporation Commission for reopening of the case. It is not possible at this stage of the proceedings to predict what will be the next move.

That the farmers throughout the entire State are aroused by this action of the Interstate Commerce Commission and have their fighting clothes on was evidenced by the presence of nearly two hundred farmers from every section of Virginia, representing in the aggregate through their organizations more than a hundred thousand farmers. Strong and vigorous protests were filed with the State Corporation Commission protesting any increase in freight rates on agricultural lime, ground limestone and marl, not only by the farmers and farmers' organizations, but by chambers of commerce, many of the cities and towns of the State who have joined the farmers in the fight.

ARLINGTON IS MADE
ONE SANITARY AREA

Installation of Trunk-Line
Sewer to Benefit All,
Judge Rules.

TO VOTE ON BOND ISSUE

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509.
Arlington County was established as one sanitary district by Judge Howard W. Smith, of the Circuit Court, sitting in special session yesterday. Judge Smith, despite considerable objection on the part of Hugh Reid, who more than three months ago presented to the court a petition asking for the establishment of sanitary district No. 1 to comprise a large section of the county in Arlington and Washington Districts, was of the opinion that even in the thinly settled sections property owners would be benefited by the trunk line, though they did not get sewers for years.

Another point raised by Mr. Reid was that until the county engineers presented to the court a definite plan and the cost of installation, there was not much that could be said on the matter.

"One district for the entire county may be a sound plan," said Mr. Reid. "But at this time can you see it?"

Engineer Thomas M. DeLamont informed the court that a tentative plan including the cost had been presented, but at this time he was not ready to have it released.

The court ruled that the question of a plan or the cost was not before the court; all that was before it at this time was the question of whether there shall be one or more sanitary districts.

It was pointed out by Hugh McGrath that if the county-wide plan is not supported by the people at the time of the election, it will be an easy matter then to ask the court to change the plan.

The action of the court was taken with wide approval as it means that with the rapid development of the county in the past five years, a definite plan for sewers is now before the people.

As soon as the county engineers can complete a definite program and confer with experts on the plan, laid out and the cost, the court will be asked to set a date for a special election.

An explained by the court, the bond issue if approved, will cover the cost of the installation of the trunk line. In accordance with the plan, the board of supervisors will make assessments against property benefited for the installation of the lateral lines.

Ownership of property which has been disposed of by tax sales in Arlington County since 1926 years may be questioned as a result of a decision handed down in the Arlington County Circuit Court yesterday by Judge Howard W. Smith.

Judge Smith sustained a demurrer in a tax suit brought by the county board of supervisors against Frederick W. Ingram and others voiding thereby between 200 and 300 suits instituted by the county within the last few months to collect delinquent taxes.

The suits by which the county sought to force the collection of delinquent real estate taxes were brought under an act of the 1900 General Assembly applicable only to Arlington County.

The case grew out of the legal move of Arlington County to collect delinquent taxes under a legislative act of 1900, providing that the board of supervisors of Arlington County be empowered to bring a chancery suit to collect delinquent taxes. The defendant, real estate taxes, was rendered unconstitutional and void upon adoption by the Virginia Legislature of its new constitution in 1902.

Attorney H. Smith Rucker, counsel for the defendant, in his brief set forth that no special or local law can be enacted for the collection of taxes. The case was based principally on this point.

The case which had been heard by Judge Smith and who at the time he might confer with State officials at Richmond, announced when handing down his decision yesterday that after reading correspondence from State officials furnished by the Commonwealth's Attorney that he was more convinced that the demurrer should be sustained.

No case that has come before the Circuit Court of Arlington County has caused such wide attention as has this one. Gloth announced last night that he will carry the case to the State Court of Appeals.

The injunction filed by L. C. Lloyd against the county board of supervisors and County Engineer L. C. Kinnier to prevent the laying of a trunk sewer on front foot charges for water mains when not promptly paid was sustained by Judge Howard W. Smith yesterday.

Judge Smith ruled that Mr. Lloyd had signed a contract to take water and the contract did not show that any penalty other than the usual 6 per cent should be charged.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth informed the court that at a recent meeting the county board of supervisors had passed a resolution that where the deferred payments were not promptly paid that a penalty of 5 per cent should be charged. The court ruled that a contract had been entered into and that no resolution by the supervisors could affect it. The court further said that until the contracts are changed only the regular 6 per cent can be charged. Attorney Lawrence Douglas appeared for Mr. Lloyd.

Judge Howard W. Smith yesterday appointed the following as commissioners in the condemnation proceedings brought by the State Highway Commission to acquire needed rights of way along the Glade road: Arthur J. Porter, N. A. Rees, Hudson Reamy, Ernest Shreve and Harry A. Fellows.

The permit to operate a soft-drink stand granted to Charles Padgett was yesterday revoked by order of Judge Smith. Padgett was recently convicted in police court on charges of illegal possession of liquor and was held for action of the grand jury.

The application for a permit to operate a dance hall was granted yesterday to the Colored Odd Fellows of Hall's Hill by Judge Smith.

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Arlington County held a picnic meeting yesterday at Glen Echo Park, with 20 members attending.

With the danger of having both the Lee highway and the Wilson boulevard closed at the same time during the course of the widening of both roads, the secretary of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, in accordance with instructions from the executive committee, has written to State Highway Commissioner H. G. Shirley with the view of having a joint conference to have the county authorities to see if something can be done to avoid closing both roads at the same time.

Bids for the widening of the Lee highway have been opened by the State Highway Department and it is expected that the work will be completed within the next few days. The contract calls for the widening of the highway from the People's State Bank in Chert Hills to Hall's Hill, and it is expected that work can be started about August 15.

It is understood that plans for detours have been worked out that will avoid much confusion during construction work. The present plans provide for work to start on the Wilson boulevard at Clarendon and to proceed toward Rosslyn to allow the widening of the Lee highway since underground work.

Herbert Cain, of Philadelphia, church architect, meeting with the building committee of the Clarendon Baptist Church yesterday, outlined plans for the building of an educational building for the church. The Rev. Perry L. Mitchell said that with an enrollment of more than 900 one building would suffice since outgrown its present quarters.

The condition of Mrs. W. E. Willis, secretary of the Arlington County Health Department, who underwent an operation yesterday in the George Washington Hospital, was said to be serious last night.

Suits for divorce were filed in the county clerk's office yesterday by Mary G. Burgess against Claude M. Burgess and by Bernadine Gibson against Edward J. Gibson.

Archie Fuller, arrested on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was held for the action of the grand jury yesterday by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas.

Approving the petition filed by Edgar W. Pumphrey asking for a division of the Clarendon voting precinct because of the present crowded conditions, Judge Howard W. Smith signed the order yesterday.

The lines of the new precinct, to be known as Clarendon voting precinct No. 2, follow:

Beginning at a point at which the center of Lyon street is intersected by the Washington material district line, thence in a southerly direction with the center of Lyon street, Cedar street, the center of the center line of Cedar street in an easterly direction to Walden avenue, in a southeasterly direction to the center line of North Clarendon avenue; thence along the center line of North Clarendon avenue in a southeasterly direction to the intersection of Clarendon and Port avenues; thence in an easterly direction with the center line of Port avenue to Virginia avenue, thence northerly with the center line of Virginia avenue to Alexandria avenue; thence easterly, following the center line of Alexandria avenue to Spruce street, thence with the center line of Spruce street to Taylor avenue, thence easterly with the center line of Taylor avenue and the same extended to an easterly direction to the western boundary of Arlington Reservation; thence northerly to the northwest corner of Vandewater street; thence with said extension and with the west side of Vandewater street to the center line of Wilson boulevard; thence westerly along the center line of Wilson boulevard to the center of Cherrydale avenue on the west side of Aurora Heights; thence with the center line of Cherrydale avenue, first northwesterly, then northerly, to the center line of the Lee Highway; thence in a westerly direction to the center of Lee Highway to the intersection with the Washington district line; thence with the Washington district line westerly to the place of beginning.

The order provides that the changes become effective on and after Monday, August 15. There will be no change at the Democratic primary held Tuesday, August 6.

Boydville Is the Ancestral
Home of Faulkners
at Martinsburg.

Special to The Washington Post.
Martinsburg, W. Va., July 24.—"Boydville," colonial ancestral home of the Faulkners here, is being remodeled and modernized under the direction of Charles James Faulkner, elder son of the late United States Senator, Charles James Faulkner.

The estate passed into the hands of the younger Faulkner at the death of the senator. Mr. Faulkner, who is chief counsel for the Armour interests, with headquarters in Chicago, indicated through relatives that he did not contemplate residing here or even establishing an Eastern headquarters here, answering a report he was coming here for residence.

"Boydville" is one of the show colonial estates in this section and has been passed down from one generation of the Faulkners to another for more than a century. It has been maintained largely in its original character, and still has abundant grounds about it although lying very near the center of this city.

NEWSBOYS' LUNCHEON
AT ORANGE EXHIBIT

Richmond Horse Out-Jumps
38 Contestants to Get Blue Ribbon.

ENTRY LIST IS RECORD

Special to The Washington Post.
Orange, Va., July 24.—With one of the largest lists of entries in its history, all parking space sold and all seats taken, the thirtieth annual exhibition of the Orange Horse Show and Racing Association opened today with ideal weather and a large first-day attendance. Of the 548 entries made by 68 exhibitors, 65 are from sections of Virginia, 2 from Delaware, 1 from Pennsylvania and 1 from Huntington, Long Island.

The show is one of the oldest in the State and this year's exhibition promises to be one of the most successful both in events and attendance since its organization. The open hunter class featured today's program, bringing out a notable array of high-class material.

Newbury, the winner of the stable of Ed Vaughan, of Richmond, scored the greatest triumph of his career in the ring when he took the open hunter class. This event produced 38 of the best jumpers in Virginia. Four ties were jumped off between the blue ribbon was awarded. The Richmond horse, Gay Corvick, owned by W. B. Rogers, of Kewick, Va., broke, owned by D. Newcomb, of Greenwood, and Newbury fought it out for the ribbon. Flakie made the second jump in the fourth jump-off. Newbury made it clean every jump and was ridden by Harry Lee Smith, of Warrenton.

Princess Royal Shows Skill.

Princess Royal, owned by Mrs. F. W. Corley, of Richmond, Va., jumping to form that has made for her a consistent winner during several seasons, took the blue for lightweight hunters. The horse was jumped over barriers 4½ feet in height. Princess Royal gobbled them up. Duchess O'Dare was third, which also was a Corley entry.

In the free-for-all jumping event, Newbury, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Vaughan, of Richmond, and Sea Me, a stable mate, won in the class for pairs of hunters.

Broken Glass, a champion hunter from the stable of Mrs. D. N. Lee, of Middleburg, was first in the class for light hunters. Broken Glass also won in the class for middle and heavy weight hunters.

Sinbad, a pony that has won many classes, ridden by Ely Wood Keith, of Charlottesville, was featured in the Corinthian class. A great ovation arose from the crowd when the ribbon was given her mount.

Rapidan, a bay gelding exhibited by Mrs. T. H. Somerville, won in the class for 2-year-olds over Sallor Boy, owned by Dr. A. M. Sueder of Vienna.

In the touch-and-out class, Miss Lindsay Harrison, daughter of the late Mitchell Harrison, rode Spruce Maid, owned by George and Anthony Rives, to win.

Louis Keith's Spring Away won easily in the first of two races, with H. O. Lynes' Lynes Trump second. In the second, a race that will be well remembered by enthusiasts of Orange, Rapidan, owned by H. R. Kerns, was beaten by Cassett, owned by S. W. Carver, by inches.

New Class Involves Thrills.

Phenolax, owned and ridden by Mrs. T. H. Somerville, the former Miss Marion Dupont, of Montpelier, won in the class for hunters' trials. This class, an innovation at Orange, was one of the best events of the day for hunters. The course was about three-quarters of a mile and the requirements were that the mount should be ridden by a member of a recognized hunter club or by an officer of the United States Army. The riders, riding across hunting country, were required to take jumps consisting of rail fences, ditches, snake and plank fences and an imitation stone wall. The number of clean performances made this event of special interest.

Summary:
Weanling, half-bred colts.—Tom Mix, Jr., first; H. C. Willis, third.

at University of Virginia to Last All Week.

DAILY ADDRESSES MADE

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 24.—A parent-teacher training course opened yesterday in Madison Hall, at the University of Virginia, with Mrs. Arthur Rowbotham, State historian of the Virginia P.-T. A., presiding. Addresses were delivered by Charles H. Kauffman, of the extension division of the University of Virginia, and by Edgar G. Weller, national chairman of the parent-teacher courses. The meeting will last through the week, with daily addresses by Mr. Kauffman and Mr. Weller and drills in parliamentary procedure by Mrs. Rowbotham.

The purpose of the "short courses" which are being put on by the State organizations all over the country by trained workers from the national organization, is to "give more information and knowledge of the P.-T. A. work to the local officers." Mr. Weller is the national representative at the university.

The officials present are: Mrs. Rowbotham, who is presiding in the absence of Mrs. Frances Dunn, State president; Mrs. Harry Semones, of Roanoke, national corresponding secretary; Miss Catherine Turner, of Roanoke, State office secretary, and Mr. Weller. Members from all over the State are attending.

VIRGINIA FIREMEN
MEET AUGUST 28

Charlottesville Will Send Large Delegations
to Lexington.

MANY PRIZES OFFERED

Special to The Washington Post.
Charlottesville, Va., July 24.—This city's volunteer fire department will be well represented at the forty-third annual convention of the Virginia State Firemen's Association, to be held at Lexington August 28, 29 and 30, according to J. C. Clarity, treasurer of the State Association. Sixty of the 100 members of the department will attend, in addition to 40 members of the band.

Lexington last entertained the convention in 1921 and is making active preparations to give the fire fighters of the State a big welcome. The program, announced by J. McD. Adams, chairman of the committee on invitation for the Lexington department, includes many attractive events during the four days of the convention. Delegates are scheduled to reach Lexington Tuesday, August 27, when they will register and be assigned to quarters. A meeting of the steering committee will be held at 8 o'clock that evening, when association business will be transacted.

To Visit Natural Bridge.

The convention will be opened at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, August 28, with business sessions. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the firemen will be taken on a motor trip to Natural Bridge. A band concert and block dance will be held that night from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The grand parade of firemen will be staged on Thursday, starting at 11 a. m., and will be followed by a luncheon to all visiting firemen and the Ladies' Auxiliary. At night there will be a firemen's ball.

Numerous prizes are offered during the convention, as follows: Open to all—Largest and best-appearing company with band, $100; best-appearing company without band, $50; first prize in hose race, $100; second prize, $50; first prize for best band in concert, $100; second prize, $50.

Open to association members only—Best-appearing company or department in parade with band, $100; best-appearing company or department in parade without band, $50. State hose race and custody of association property—First prize, $100; second prize, $50. Largest and best-appearing Ladies' Auxiliary of a company or department participating in parade, $50.

Dash Will Be Feature.

Other prizes include: Foot race—100-yard dash, open only to members who participate in hose race, first prize, $10; second prize, $5. Best-decorated place of business, $25. Best-decorated automobile in parade—First prize, $25; second prize, $10. To company coming the longest distance, $50.

For the last three years the Charlottesville department has carried off the prize offered for the best-appearing company in parade with band. These trophies were won at Covington, Alexandria and Ocean View.

In the open-to-all contest last year the Harrisonburg company won the $100 prize as the largest and best-appearing company with band. James M. Dugan, Jr., chief of the Alexandria fire department, is the president of the Virginia Association.

in September.

KIWANIS TO MEET TODAY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.

312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 123.

The general committee of the Kananah survey and personal work campaign, a religious movement under the auspices of the Alexandria Ministerial Association which will be conducted for two weeks beginning September 15, met last night in the Westminster Building to perfect plans for the campaign. The committee is composed of the Rev. Ernest M. Delaney, chairman; district directors, Tyson Janney, Ward Howell, Frank Wolford and Miss Virginia Schofield.

The chairman has requested that the churches furnish him with the names of the workers for the census immediately, as it will be necessary to have the plans matured before these workers leave the city on their summer vacations.

A union meeting in the interest of this movement will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday evening at the First Baptist Church, to which all persons having a part in the campaign will be made by both ministers and laymen, and a list of the speakers will be announced by the general committee later.

Dr. W. Lewis Schafer will have charge of the entertainment program of the Kiwanis Club luncheon today, and will present Dr. Oscar B. Hunter, assistant dean of George Washington University. The announcement of the program states that a prescription will be presented for the relief of those suffering from "sore throat, dryness, acute bronchitis, acid tonia, bragg, tickling throat, insomnia, tired feeling, melancholia or an inferiority complex," there being a free demonstration and guaranteed cure for any Kiwanian who submits proof of having any of these ailments. The predominant feature of an accompanying illustration is a bottle which does not appear to contain milk.

An extra treatment is promised the Kiwanian giving the best answer to a hypothetical question concerning the doctrine of a doctoring doctor doctoring a doctoring doctor.

Two former members of the city police force appeared in police court yesterday. One as a complainant against the other. The defendant was Edward Roach, of R. F. D. No. 4, who was charged by J. R. Madaris, former policeman, with the larceny of a pistol. Roach was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, but an appeal was noted, bond fixed at $75 and Roach's personal bond taken for his appearance.

Mrs. Madaris, wife of the complainant, testified that Roach returned the pistol, which was alleged to have been taken July 16, and that she refused to accept its return. Roach, however, is understood to have left the weapon at the Madaris home. Roach did not take the stand.

A suitcase containing photographic equipment valued at $150 which was reported stolen from an automobile parked in front of the George Mason Hotel Thursday night, and belonging to Edward Eames, of Buffalo, N. Y., was recovered yesterday morning, being found in the yard at the rear of Luray Officials Believe J. R.

Marshall's Home Then
Was Set Afire.

INVESTIGATION IS BEGUN

Luray, Va., July 24 (N.Y.W.S.).—The police today started an investigation into the death of John Ross Marshall, whose body was found in the ashes of his burned home Saturday. A number of persons were questioned by the authorities. There are several suspects, according to the police, who might have murdered the man for his money and valuables.

Marshall came here from Philadelphia about four years ago. He was wealthy and was known to keep considerable money in his home. He lived the life of a recluse, although he was only 39 and a veteran of the World War.

None of his valuables were found and the police believe he was murdered and his home set on fire to conceal the crime.

The charred body was found in the ruins of his home. A shotgun, a gold watch and a revolver Marshall owned are missing. His wife was found broken in three pieces, was found in the ruins.

Marshall was very popular. He had done considerable charitable work. The entire county is aroused over his death.

The Bank of Del Ray, in the town of Potomac, has elected three directors: Nelson T. Snyder, Jr., Carl Budweiser, Judge William P. Woolle, John Gary, Tony Guirre, George E. Garrett, Henry P. Thomas, J. H. Bittenbender and Clay T. Brittle.

It is understood the directors will hold a meeting shortly for the election of officers.

THE KELLOGG PACT.

The Kellogg antiwar pact was formally presented to international society in the east room of the White House yesterday as a new instrument of human endeavor to do away with war. It was presented as the consummation of a noble gesture, a proposal to the conscience and idealism of civilized nations. An extensive and elaborately planned advertising program seemingly guaranteed to the ceremony first place in national, if not international, affairs.

But before nightfall another announcement from the White House completely dwarfed in point of importance the debut of the pact with its radio accompaniment and the clicking cameras which prevented the diplomats from hearing President Hoover's proclamation speech.

This latter announcement was in connection with the statement of Premier MacDonald in the British Parliament on naval reductions and stated that President Hoover would suspend the American naval building program laid down in the last cruiser bill to the extent of not laying down the keels of the three American cruisers provided for under the terms of this bill.

Thus the President declares that he will suspend the building program without the authority or consent of Congress and in spite of the overwhelming vote by which both the Senate and the House ordered these cruisers constructed. There looms at once the prospect of a controversy with Congress which will inevitably lead to far-reaching consequences and to a challenge of the President's right to interfere with the expressed will of the American people.

There is a provision in the bill, inserted in the Senate, which authorizes the President to suspend any part of the cruiser-building program if an international agreement is reached on the subject of limiting naval armaments. When that provision was discussed it was suggested by Senator Walsh, of Montana, and others that the executive branch of the Government might falsely construe the provision to mean that the Executive had the right to suspend building without the authority of Congress. In reply, it was emphasized that agreement on naval limitation obviously meant an agreement ratified by the Senate and that there could be no agreement until such ratification had been procured.

An exchange of views between Premier MacDonald and President Hoover is not an agreement between governments on limitation of naval armaments. Congress, under the Constitution, is responsible for maintaining the United States Navy and the law as enacted by Congress and signed by President Coolidge governs the cruiser building program of the United States unless and until Congress otherwise ordains.

There is certain to be widespread protest against the suspension of the cruiser-building program without authority of Congress and in defiance of the cruiser legislation. Sentiment may be more than ever aroused because Mr. Hoover, together with President Coolidge and organized pacifist organizations, sought to influence Congress against making construction of the cruisers mandatory within prescribed time limits.

These efforts were smothered in adverse votes. Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, sought by amendment to defer the construction of the first cruisers for a period of a year. His amendment was decisively beaten. The action now suggested will amount to making Senator Harrison's defeated amendment operative despite the adverse vote which smothered it.

Coupled with efforts to cripple national defense and delay the operation of the law with respect to American cruisers, the Kellogg pact may become a symbol of the discredited pacifist cause before it is given even a partial test as a supplementary peace gesture. It will fare badly under such circumstances. It is to be hoped that President Hoover will not delay in frustrating pacifist attempts to use the Kellogg pact against the interests of the American people. Meanwhile, no move to circumvent the law under the cruiser bill should be made without the consent of Congress.

NEW YORK'S SIBERIA.

The outbreak at Dannemora Prison demands more than routine "investigation." On Monday, following weeks of growing unrest, the inmates of the institution set free the carpenter shop, hoping that in the confusion that resulted they would be able to break for freedom. Prison authorities were hard put to restrain the rioters, and in the general melee three prisoners were shot to death by their guards. Today, quiet reigns within the walls, but liberties and privileges have been severely curtailed while State officials seek to determine the root of the trouble.

Dannemora, to a greater or less degree, is unique among American penal institutions, inasmuch as it is utilized largely for the incarceration of dangerous criminals—convicts who, it is believed, are too unruly or too depraved to be housed in company with the run of convicts. Situated in the Adirondacks, remote from civilization, Dannemora has come to be known in the underworld as "Siberia." Many of the prisoners in Dannemora are lifers and they had little to lose even though their break for freedom proved unsuccessful. Like most American penal institutions, Dannemora is badly overcrowded, 1,600 convicts being held in cells built to accommodate but 1,160.

The riot and attempted outbreak at Dannemora demand the careful consideration of penologists, law-makers, jurists and all those who are interested in the improvement of justice. While society, of course, is justified in taking the most drastic steps for its protection, is there room in the American penological system for an institution that is known as "Siberia"? Is it good policy to throw together in the close restriction of prison life a company of unsocial, depraved and desperate men? Is it not utterly folly to permit overcrowding, even though it is held necessary to confine such criminals in American Siberia, a condition that inevitably must favor plotting and conspiracy? Is society justified in incarcerating its enemies, giving them absolutely no hope of the future and making it inevitable that they should be ready to risk all on the most slim hope of attaining freedom, however temporary?

The State of New York may be depended upon to investigate conditions at Dannemora and to establish whether the grievances as to food, holiday conditions, etc., were responsible for the desperate outbreak. The incident, however, is of far greater fundamental importance and the questions it suggests demand the attention of crime commissions, individuals and, particularly, trained penologists. The answers are of direct concern to an entire country in which crime is on the increase, in which prisons generally are badly overcrowded and where murder, banditry and assault fill the columns of the press. The Dannemora outbreak is so fraught with significance that it might well engage the attention of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

ITALIAN TRADE STATISTICS.

The report on Italian trade for 1928 is in some respects extremely interesting. Agriculture still remains the principal industry of Italy. Of a population estimated at 41,000,000, more than 10,000,000 persons 10 years old and upward are engaged in agriculture, while less than half that number are employed in manufactures and commerce. At the same time, it is to be noted that there was considerable manufacturing and commercial growth, especially in the enterprising northern section of the country.

This latter increase is in part due to the reorganization of industry which took place during 1928. It was found that, while some of the industrial elements had adapted themselves to the revaluation of the lira, others had failed to do so, and thus there arose a high cost of production, prejudicial to Italian manufactures when these were brought into competition with the manufactured products of other countries. Drastic action was accordingly called for, and it was vigorously applied. Systems and methods of production were overhauled, and many fusions of large undertakings took place. The result was highly satisfactory, for in the latter part of the year a distinct improvement was evident, none the less pleasing because it was helped along materially by a stirring revival of the home market. Metal, leather, rubber and sugar were the leaders among the industries that showed better costs of production and therefore secured a better market.

There was also an improvement in the facilities for transportation. The new Cuneo-Nice railroad has provided much easier communication between the north of Italy and Western Europe, and a road board, instituted by decree in May, 1928, undertook at once an energetic treatment of some 6,000 kilometers of roads. Subsidies to shipping services were increased by 4,000,000 lire from 1927-1928 to 1930-1931. There are in operation commercial air lines, long and short, to the number of twelve.

Italy still has an adverse trade balance. Compared with 1927, imports increased about 8 per cent and exports decreased about 7 per cent. The largest exporter to Italy is the United States, which sends her goods to the annual value of some 4,000,000,000 lire. Germany comes next with 2,000,000,000 lire, followed by France and Argentina with about 2,000,000,000 lire each. Germany is Italy's best customer, taking her products to the annual value of 1,800,000,000 lire, but is closely pressed by the United States with 1,500,000,000 lire worth. Next in order, and following still more closely, are the United Kingdom, with nearly 1,400,000,000 lire, and France with 1,350,000,000 lire.

It is specially worthy of note, because it contains a serious warning, that the lack of rainfall in Italy in the summer of 1928 is attributed to the deforestation of the Mediterranean basin, and that, as a remedial measure, attempts are now being made to reforest the mountains.

The various economic activities now at work in Italy give promise that ere long she will forge rapidly ahead.

One thing the Presidency does for a man is to enable him to build up a stock of potential wedding presents sufficient to last him the rest of his days.

Citizens of a neighboring suburb complain of a scarcity of water. It must, indeed, be annoying to be compelled to use home brew for washing one's hands.

The annual report of the Keeley Institute for cure of alcoholism calls 1928 the second greatest year in its history. Evidently the Volstead cure has been a boon to the Keeley cure.

At the recent medical convention doctors blamed the automobile with its monoxide gas for the lack of "pep" of which so many people complain. But what else besides the automobile keeps those who own one hopping to pay for it and those who do not own one hopping to keep from being killed.

PEOPLE OF HAWAII

By MAX G. LINDER,
In Pan Pacific Progress.

Unlike many races of early times, the Hawaiians never were cannibals. They practiced religious rites which were not in harmony with modern concepts of women's rights, but otherwise they have always been a kindly people, fond of feasting, of music, of dancing, of fishing, of hunting, of all forms of play. Life on the Hawaiian Islands was so ordered by Providence that some effort was necessary to maintain existence. Thus, the Hawaiians, instead of sinking to the low levels of the lazy South Sea Islanders, made progress along the pathway of civilization. From their native trees and fruits and nuts they fashioned wonderful receptacles and dishes to grace their tables. They learned the art of making tapa cloth from the bark of a small bush and creating dazzling designs from berry juice dyes. Swimming is the Hawaiian's natural pastime. In disposition he is extremely affectionate and particularly indulgent to children.

In business it is noticed that the average Hawaiian is very seldom successful. He seems to be rather devoid of the trading impulse. Though usually physically well built and strong, it can not be said that he is fond of continuous or monotonous exertion.

For a person of his make-up politics is a profession ideally suited to his energies. Into this he enters with a zest of a game. Public position, especially if it gives him a chance to display his gifts of oratory, appeals to him. Many places in the public service in the Hawaiian Islands are efficiently filled by Hawaiians or part-Hawaiians.

In talking with those who have lived longest among these people I am advised they are regarded with the utmost friendliness and even affection. Hawaiians readily adapt themselves to any musical instrument. The ukulele—"dancing flea," the small guitar, was introduced by the Portuguese, but is associated with Hawaii wherever it is played, and is heard the world over.

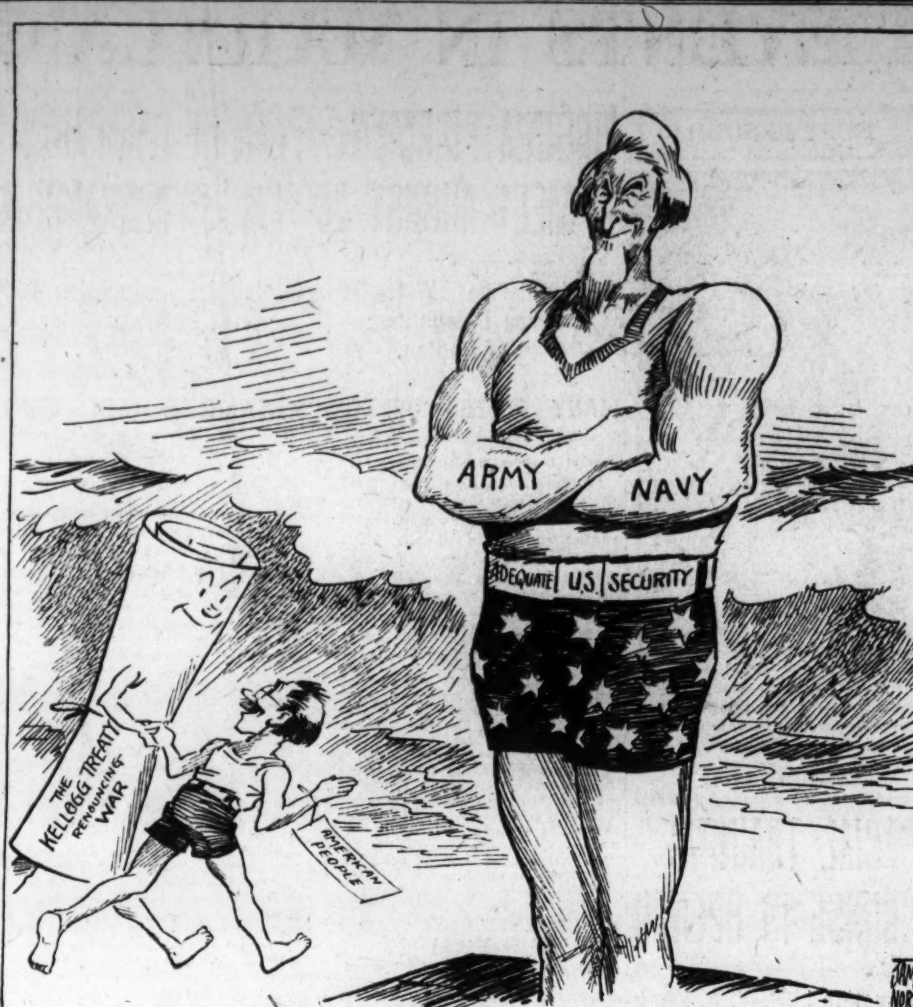

Like the ukulele, the hula is also associated with Hawaii wherever it is seen, but only in Hawaii can the real hula be seen and fully appreciated. The original hula depicts a story, such as the islands, the sea, the mountains, valleys, beautiful rainbows, etc., and consists chiefly of rhythmic motion of the limbs and body to the accompaniment of the rattling of gourds, the tap-tapping of small drums and the music of stringed instruments. The dancing girl wears a grass skirt falling to the knees, flowers in her hair and wreathing her shoulders in leis, or garlands, dances barefooted.

Then there is the luau (feast) featuring Hawaiian music and dancing, and native food cooked Hawaiian style in an "imu" (oven in the ground). Since 1914 the death rate of the pure Hawaiians has exceeded the birth rate, and in spite of efforts to preserve the native Hawaiian blood the race is declining in numbers and at the present rate probably will not survive many generations. The number of persons of mixed blood, particularly Asiatic-Hawaiians, is fast increasing. There is no apparent opposition on the part of Hawaiians to intermarriage with other races. The intermarriage with the Chinese is particularly noticeable and this combination produces a very excellent race. A large number have also intermarried with Anglo-Saxons and Portuguese, but very few with the Japanese, which is occasioned by the Japanese desiring marriages only among their own people.

The white mixtures with the Hawaiians, while they number among their class people of exceptional strength and character and intellect, are as a group much more likely to resent regulation and discipline and to weary of routine. The leadership among this part-Hawaiians group is almost wholly in the hands of the part-Hawaiians with white blood. Ambition and force of personality bring these latter to executive positions of importance.

Owing to the extremely mild climate children go barefooted the year round. This is also quite noticeable on the part of their elders, particularly around their homes, and in the rural districts sandals are quite universally worn. The older Hawaiian women still wear the old-time "holoku," or loose-fitting dress of some medium-priced fabric, the majority also wearing the large straw hats. The men, and also the younger generation of boys and girls, wear up-to-date apparel in accordance with their station in life and in consideration of a tropical climate.

In keeping with their esthetic temperament, whether at work or play, the lei or garland of flowers is very much in evidence.

Keep the Lifeguard on the Job.

HOW TO BE A CAPTAIN.

"I'd like to be the captain of a ship that sails the sea.
I'd like to wear that uniform," a youngster said to me.
Said I: "Let's ask the captain what a youngster has to do
Who wants to be the master of a vessel and its crew?"
So up we went to see him, with this question on our lips:
"What is it captains have to do before they get their ships?"

There was a twinkle in his eye as unto us he said:
"Well, first I tugged at anchor chains until my hands were red,
I scrubbed the decks and learned the ropes and trundled bales below,
I washed the dishes for the cook, but that was years ago.
I carried slops and polished brass.
When I was young like you
There wasn't anything about the ship I didn't do.

"I stoked and I learned to oil, and in a year or two
They let me take my trick at wheel which I had longed to do.
And well I mind the happy luncheon which came into my throat.
The day they made me Number One of the Number Seven boat.
I served as petty officer for several years or more
And by and by as second mate a uniform I wore.

"And when I'd learned a little more—I don't recall the date—
My captain recommended me to be the vessel's mate.
So when you see a captain in his braided uniform
It means that he's been tried below, and tried above in storm.
He's had many years of service in the crew's nest and the hold,
And worked his way through grease and dirt to get that braid of gold."

There Is No Other Hunger Like the Hunger for a Friend.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THAT people should be unhappy by reason of ill health occasions in the observer only a superficial sympathy tainted with aversion, for ill health is almost as natural and inevitable as death and seems the common lot of man, to be endured with resignation and without resentment.

That people should be unhappy by reason of poverty seems a breach of good sportsmanship, unless it is the bitter poverty of actual want, and the observer's sympathy is diluted with the philosophy that losers must lose in order that winners may win.

But the unhappiness of the lonely, whose lives are dreary despite health and wealth, seems the great tragedy of human existence, without cause or justification, for their misery is caused by a want that others of their kind would rejoice to supply.

What a commentary on the intelligence of men that two individuals within reach of one another should live in misery when each possesses the means of bringing joy to the other.

Hungry-hearted people, walking the street as strangers, looking coldly into eyes that return their indifferent coldness, while their souls yearn for the simple boon of friendly companionship and their lives are bitter for want of the smile and the handclasp that others like themselves yearn to give! Is there a more bitter irony in all human experience?

Those of you who have understanding friends with whom you feel at rest and in whose presence you feel shielded from the world may think the suffering of the lonely nothing more than self-pity, but those who long in vain for comradeship endure a degree of misery almost insupportable.

To be in the midst of crowds and possess no friend to love—to realize that no human being counts you chief of his treasures or depends on you for his happiness—to meet no eyes that brighten with pleasure at your approach—to have no friend with whom you can talk without reserve or sit contented in silence—that is the saddest of human tragedies and the most excruciating.

"Get your happiness from your work," said Stevenson; but he got his from a woman's comradeship, as all men must.

There are men and women whose "good fortune" you envy who would give all they possess in exchange for the friendship you might give them.

It is so little to do in a dreary world, and yet there is no greater philanthropy.

Give to the hungry-hearted. Give yourself. Be a friend to man. You would feed the starving; feed starving hearts.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE WICKERSHAM PLAN.

The Nation is now agog over the Wickersham proposal for solving the prohibition enforcement problem.

The former Attorney General would have Uncle Sam pursue the border and offshore booze industry, centering its attention on ships and trucks, and paying no attention to individuals backing up to local refilling stations.

His idea is that the Government should get after the cargo-lot violators and let the States handle the individual bottle trade.

The proposition ruined what started out to be a perfectly delightful summer picnic of governors at a Connecticut golf resort. If there is anything the average governor doesn't want to touch it's the liquor enforcement problem. Trying to get out from under the Wickersham proposition with a good face kept the assembled governors so busy that none of them mastered the jack-knife dive or perfected his overhand swimming stroke at New London.

The idea that the States should attend to the gin, rye and scotch after it left the wholesale warehouses and got as far as the bars, the pantries and the golf club lockers—rooms was quite unsatisfactory to the executives, some of whom might have to raid their own cellars under the proposition.

Only the big bootleggers heartily endorse the plan. They see how, driving along a road with a load of booze and seeing government agents ahead, they could back into a lot, tack a sign "Country Club" on the truck, hop into some golf pants, sing "Sweet Adeline" in quartet formation and insist they were subject only to local regulation.

The average citizen is puzzled by the proposal and doesn't quite know what to think of it. All he is sure of is that a scowfaw would have a tough time reasoning out whether he was drinking under Government

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Hay Fever Causes Suffering and Monetary Loss—The District Should Clean Up All Weed-Infested Areas.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a few weeks the hay fever season will be upon us. Nine per cent of the people of the United States are affected by ragweed pollen. If this same proportion holds true in the District, there are 45,000 people in this city who are looking forward to the coming month with little pleasure. Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, of Chicago, as quoted in the Literary Digest for July 13, says: "The destruction of all weeds would reduce the occurrence of hay fever by almost 90 per cent."

Here is an opportunity for the District of Columbia to perform an invaluable service to a very substantial part of its population. Ragweeds of at least two vicious varieties are growing in rank profusion in many parts of Rock Creek Park and in many vacant and neglected properties about the city. These pestilence-breeding nuisances apparently are permitted without a thought by the Health Department, the Park Commission and the fortunate 91 per cent of the population. An epidemic of any other description affecting 9 per cent of the population would certainly result in definite action.

Based upon an estimate for the entire country, Washington's proportional monetary loss due to this annual plague would be $225,000. If one considers the loss due to decreased efficiency during the several weeks of affliction as well as the actual loss of time, doctors' bills and traveling expenses in efforts to get away from ragweed-infested areas, this estimate is surely very conservative. It is hardly possible to estimate the amount of illness during the early winter due to the lowering of vitality resulting from hay fever during August and September.

A small part of $225,000 spent in destroying weeds during the first two weeks of August should prove an excellent investment to the taxpayers and merchants. A Washington free from rank growths of weeds in unkempt spots would not only prove a much more livable place for those who suffer from this annual pestilence, but would be a much more agreeable place to look at.

ELDRIDGE MOWERY.

Sea Creatures Are Equipped With Nerve Structures—Care Should Be Taken to Prevent Their Unnecessary Suffering.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The disregard of the average person for the suffering of fish and other sea animals is astonishing. People foolishly indulgent of some pet in the home will still in some cases not hesitate to torture crabs or turtles. The skinning of eels alive is a barbarism.

A sharp blow between the eyes of a fish will take little time and will put an end to the creature's misery. Since the flavor of flesh is impaired by pain experienced before death, many fishermen advocate killing fish upon removal from the water. Crabs, lobsters, clams and oysters are equipped with nerve structures which, while not of the most delicate order, make them capable of feeling pain. The amount no one can measure, it is not necessary to cook these animals alive. Insensibility can first be produced. In the case of the lobster, a sharp pointed knife should be thrust through the head at a point where two lines following the direction of the eye stems would meet. The procedure spares a horrible form of suffering.

The boy Abraham Lincoln had courage to rescue a turtle from companions who stood it. No living creature was too insignificant to find a defender in the Great Emancipator. A bird, a pig or a kitten was worthy of his attention. Bearing the burden of the affairs of a nation, Lincoln found time for kind acts. Can we emulate a better example. R. E. N.

In Praise of Washington Traffic Regulations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just terminated in Washington an automobile tour that took me through several large Eastern cities and I have reached this conclusion: Washington handles its traffic more efficiently than any of these cities. The wide streets are, in part, responsible for this. But in New York City on Fifth Avenue there is only one traffic light to serve two blocks, whereas in Washington we have eight signals in two blocks. There the light is usually suspended over the intersection where it is seen with difficulty.

In Philadelphia automobiles park on either side of a street, facing in either direction, and pass trolley cars on either side. This capacity Washington traffic is certainly less chaotic!

WATER FALLS AT WORK.

One after another the great waterfalls of the Alps and Apennines have been placed in subjugation by Italy; their waters guided into huge, high pressure conduits and forced to turn giant turbines, writes Henry Kuttredge Norton in "World's Work."

Before the war these turbines were already producing two billion kilowatt hours per year; during the war, because of the lack of coal and the need for power, this capacity was increased by another billion kilowatts. After the postwar turbulence had settled down into the fascist regime, a new impetus was given to electrical development, and by the end of 1926 the actual consumption had reached 7,500,000,000 kilowatt hours per annum.

Since then it has continued to mount. More than 7,000 of Italy's 9,000 communes are now supplied with electrical energy. The per capita consumption runs close to 200 kilowatt hours.

As was to be expected under the circumstances, by far the greater portion of Italy's electrical energy is used in turning the wheels of her factories. Lighting is a secondary consideration. Sixty per cent of Italy's electrical energy is used for motor power; 15 per cent for light and heat; 14 per cent in the metallurgical and chemical industries; and the remaining 11 per cent for the electrified railways.

Envoy's Son

At Ceremony in Brussels.

By JEAN ELIOT.

PRESIDENT HOOVER stood godfather for the infant son of the U. S. Ambassador to Belgium and Mrs. Hugh Gibson, who was baptized yesterday in Brussels, Mr. William King Shafter acting as his proxy. The baby's godmother, also an American, is Mrs. Wortham James, who was represented at the ceremony by Countess Sophie Clary Aluringer. King Albert of the Belgians and the Duke of Brabant sent personal congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gibson on this auspicious occasion.

Mr. Gibson, it will be remembered, was secretary of the U. S. Legation in Brussels under Mr. Brand Whitlock, before our diplomatic establishment was raised to an embassy, and he was intimately associated with Mr. Hoover when the latter was in charge of relief work in Belgium during the war. The friendship formed then has become increasingly close. Mr. Gibson married a charming Belgian lady, Mlle. Ynez Reymtens.

When the twin babies of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Beck, Jr.—a boy and a girl—were christened recently in London, the godfather of the little boy was the Countess of Oxford and Asquith, Margot Asquith, famous on two continents as a political hostess, a writer and a personage, was Margot Tennant and is a kinswoman of Mr. Beck, also born a Tennant. At the time of her marriage to Mr. Beck, which took place abroad, she was the Hon. Mrs. Tennant. Mr. Beck is the son of Representative and Mrs. James M. Beck.

The Countess of Oxford and Asquith, when still Mrs. Asquith, visited Washington once upon a time when on a lecture tour in this country; and memories persist of her vivid personality. This was the time when her daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of Prince Antoine Bibesco, was chaperone of the Roumanian Legation. Princess Bibesco has inherited her mother's taste for writing and is the author of several novels. Apropos of babies—to go back a bit—the name Margot has been chosen for the daughter born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Wallis Blesker Duncanson in Paris. It is a variation of the name of the little lady's mother, who was Miss Margaret Sutherland. Mrs. Duncanson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sutherland. Her father, once senator from West Virginia, is now Allen Property Custodian.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth
Leave Summer Cottage.

From Newport comes news that the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth have leased a cottage at Shoreby Hill, Jamestown, R. I., for the rest of the season and are expected to arrive, with Paulina, the middle of next week.

When Mrs. Longworth left Washington recently, after postponing her departure several times, she expected to stay at the Longworth home in Cincinnati through the summer, as is her custom, although she thought that the Speaker might come East to make a round of visits as he occasionally does. But one has learned to expect the unexpected from President Roosevelt's daughter. She has always expressed a distaste for summer resorts, but possibly the thought of introducing Paulina to the joys of digging in the sand has won her over.

The Longworths' house in Massachusetts avenue remains open, but they are not expected to return until Congress reconvenes. The cottage, which the Speaker and Mrs. Longworth have taken at Jamestown, belongs to Miss Julia Parker, of Detroit.

Minister of Colombia
Returns to New London.

The Minister of Colombia, Senor Olaya, who came to Washington a few days ago especially to attend the peace pact ceremony at the White House yesterday, left last night to return to New London, Conn. Senor and Senora de Olaya, who are established at New London for the summer, are taking a series of short motor trips through Connecticut and the Narragansett Bay region.

Mr. Frederick Nano, Charge d'Affaires ad interim of Roumania, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edridge Jordan since his arrival in Washington, will move to the legation early next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Siddons have at their guests Baron and Baroness Luigi Filippo Marincola di San Flora, who arrived recently from Italy. Until her marriage in Rome last January, Baroness Marincola was of Chevy Chase, who is making a motor trip to Quebec, Canada, with her uncle, Mr. Oscar C. Merrill. They will return to Washington late in September.

Miss Josephine Pomeroy, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pomeroy, of Washington and New York, who for many years have been citizens of the world and who have recently been living in Rome. The young couple are being extensively, if informally, entertained during their brief visit here.

On Saturday they will go to New York to be with Baroness Marincola's father when she celebrates her birthday. Mr. Pomeroy came from Italy with his son-in-law and daughter, leaving Mrs. Pomeroy in Rome as hostess for his early return. In the autumn Baron and Baroness Marincola expect to take an apartment in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Siddons, who are at present occupying the house of his parents, Justice and Mrs. Siddons, in Cleveland Park, will leave on August 1 for Beamis Point in northern New York to pass the rest of the summer.

Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of Senator Borah, has gone to Idaho where she will visit for several weeks. While in the West Mrs. Borah will make trips to Portland, Ore., and to the coast.

The Undersecretary of State, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, has been joined at the Wardman Park Hotel by his daughter, Miss Isabel Cotton.

The chief of staff, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, will leave today for an inspection trip through the South.

Real Admiral George H. Rock, and Mrs. Rock have returned from Europe, where they have been since April and have reopened their home at 2008 Hillier place. Admiral Rock went to England in the spring on an official mission; from there he and Mrs. Rock continued on a pleasure trip through Europe.

Mme. Jan Masaryk sailed yesterday on the Mauretania for England after a visit at her former home in this country and will join M. Masaryk, who is Minister of Czechoslovakia to the Court of St. James, in London. Mme. Masaryk is the daughter of Mr. Charles R. Crane, sometime U. S. Minister to China, and a sister of Mr. Richard Crane, once Minister to Czechoslovakia. Her husband, the son of a former President of Czechoslovakia, was his

This distinguished Frenchwoman is one of a large group of members of the International Council of Nurses, the largest professional women's association in the world, representing twenty-four countries, who are visiting in Washington on their way home after attending the organization's convention, held in Montreal from July 8 to July 13. Miss Cox-Davies, president of the College of Nurses of London, which has a membership of 27,000 registered British nurses, is also in town and another distinguished visitor is Miss Emily MacManus, matron of Guy's Hospital, London.

Mademoiselle Helleman, president of the National Federation of Nurses and director of the St. Elizabeth School for Nurses in Malines, is staying at the Georgetown Hospital nurses' residence as the guest of the superintendent of nurses, Sister Joan-illa. With her are four other Belgian nurses, Mademoiselle de Haen, of Versailles; Mademoiselle de Ruyter, of Tournai; Mademoiselle Kakenbeck, chief of the nursing division of the Belgian Red Cross, and Mademoiselle Piron, of Brussels. Miss Mattie Gibson, superintendent of the Children's Hospital, has as her guests two French nurses, Mademoiselle d'Haussonville and Mademoiselle St. Quentin, while Miss Smaling, chief nurse, Navy Hospital, is hostess to an English nurse, Miss Hopwood, of Cheshire.

Maj. Stimson is occupying for the summer Mrs. Alvin Dodd's charming old house in Georgetown, spending occasional week-ends at the picturesque little bungalow in the Virginia hills overlooking the Potomac, which she shares with Capt. Blanche Rulin, one of her associates in the corps of Army nurses.

A wedding of interest took place yesterday when Miss Mildred Ann Schoenborn, daughter of Mr. Henry F. Schoenborn, and the late Commander Schoenborn, and Mr. Preston Pearce Bogley, son of Mr. Marion J. Bogley, were married. The ceremony was performed last evening at 8 o'clock in the St. Albans Protestant Episcopal Church by the Rev. Henry Teiler Cooke.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Daniel Goldsmith Shanks, and wore a gown of ivory tulle with a veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Frances Elizabeth Schoenborn, sister of the bride, who wore a robe de style of flesh-colored organdy and large straw hat to match. She carried an arm

Diplomats In
Formal ArrayCeremony at White House Brings Out Notable Assemblage.

The formal proclamation of the Kellogg antiwar pact yesterday brought together one of the largest and most notable groups of foreign diplomats ever to gather at the White House during a summer season. It was a brilliant and distinguished cortege that solemnly bowed its way into the east room and sat about the long, green table listening to the cameras click while President Hoover delivered an address.

Virtually all the foreign chiefs of mission were present, rock-coated, stiff-collared, spotted, and terribly warm. If it was not in Washington, it was doubly hot in the east room, where the dunes and calcium lights of a battery of camera men awaited the diplomats. Heat poured into the room from the sun-bathed portico. Several newspaper correspondents walked outside to get a breath of air, but the formally attired diplomats bowed and sat and suffered.

Sir Esmé Howard, British Ambassador and dean of the corps, headed his colleagues. As usual, the envoy was perfectly dressed and despite the heat, he looked entirely cool and at ease. Only the constant clicking of the camera shutters annoyed him and he glanced frowningly down the table on several occasions. Prince de Ligne, the Belgian Ambassador, who sat beside Sir Esmé, was also a model of sartorial elegance, and the heat appeared to bother him not at all. His boy tie gave an air of innocence and composure. In contrast to the long, somber ties of the diplomats who surrounded him.

Some of the envoys looked uncomfortably hot, and undoubtedly were Count Laszlo Szechenyi, the Hungarian Minister, had dashed down to Washington from the breezes of Newport, but he was apparently unaffected by the high temperature. Ambassador Paul Claudel, of France, however, visibly was worried. He nervously took off and replaced his eyeglasses, and dabbed at his face with a handkerchief. For this course he had an excellent precedent. Former Secretary of State Kellogg, who sat next to him, was energetically mopping at his forehead.

Alone, among the Diplomatic Corps, the single eye-glass of Mr. P. C. Nano, Charge d'Affaires ad interim of the Roumanian Legation, sparkled with icy aloofness. Mr. Nano was a miracle of imperturbability. He was serene and undisturbed by the heat, the camera clicking, the calcium lights. After calmly placing his monocle in his eye at the opening of the session, he did not touch it once during the ceremony. A number of colleagues with wilted collars stared enviously at him.

Have you a date on the moors this year... Scotland, Yorkshire, Durham, you and your gun, and the grouse flying high... well done, a pretty shot! Or are you off for stag... driven, or stalked at dawn through the still dripping woods? August the 12th is the date for you. You'll get a bit of salmon fishing, too... you'll cast for speckled trout in your favorite pool. September first brings the partridge, and the pheasant rocketing over. Golf at St. Andrews... golden days in the high clear air, miles from a ticker, years and years from work. FIVE days across "the longest gauntlet in the world."

REYNOLDS ASSERTS LIGHTS BLINDED HIM

U. S. Tobacco Heir on Stand in London in Trial for Manslaughter.

UNAWARE OF ACCIDENT

London, July 24 (A.P.)—Richard J. Reynolds, wealthy 23-year-old resident of Winston-Salem, N. C., today at Old Bailey took the stand to defend himself against charges of manslaughter growing out of an automobile fatality in which Arthur Graham, a motorcycle rider, received mortal injuries.

Norman Birkett, counsel for the defense, summoned among other witnesses today, a bartender from the "Old Bell" Hotel. This man testified that the son of the late founder of the Reynolds Tobacco Co. was not intoxicated when he left the hotel on the trip which resulted in the fatal injuries to Graham.

The attorney told the jury his client would not deny it was his automobile which struck Graham, but he emphasized that Reynolds was unaware the accident had happened. Reynolds himself testified he was dazzled by the headlights of an automobile and that he turned out so far that his car mounted the curb and ran up on the sidewalk. He said it was then that he must have struck the motorcycle without realizing that fact.

The defendant said he felt the car skid and also felt a heavy bump but believed this latter was caused by the curb. He noticed that one of his headlight lens was broken but he attributed this to a hedge which bordered the sidewalk.

Earlier in his story Reynolds had said he had taken five drinks called "Pimms No. 1 Cup," at the hotel and Dr. Bernard Dyer testified he had analyzed this concoction and concluded

Col. Michael Gallagher and daughter, Miss Helen Gallagher, are guests at the Willard.

Mrs. McElroy Moss and her two children left last evening for Sewickley, Pa., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Moss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barnes Benney, for several days. Mrs. Moss will leave the children with their grandparents and on Saturday will go on to Lake Forest, Ill., where Mr. Moss will join her for several weeks. Mrs. Moss will not return to Washington until September.

Mrs. Charles Colfax Long has gone to Bass Rocks, Mass., to remain until September.

Mrs. Xenophon H. Price arrived yesterday at the Wardman Park Hotel. Mrs. Price was formerly Miss Alice Milburn. She will be in the wedding party when her brother, Ensign Alexander Milburn, is married on August 3 to Miss Virginia Fairfax Blackstone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Diminieu Blackstone.

Mr. Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, with Mrs. Baker, Miss Margaret Baker and Miss Lucile Baker, sailed yesterday on the George Washington for Europe.

May Martin Scanlon, who has recently been in Washington, is also a passenger on the George Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Black are passing some days in New York from their summer home, Alandale Farm, at Huntington, Long Island. They will go to Newport for the month of August.

Mrs. Robert Hinckley and Mrs. that each of the drinks was equal to about one and a half whiskeys.

Mr. Birkett said he considered this aspect so important he would call several eminent medical men to testify tomorrow. He said the list would include Sir William Wilcox, Sir James Purves and Sir Bernard S. Pillsbury, the last named being a noted pathologist.

William Fitch Kelley, of Washington, are spending some time at Etretat, France. Mrs. Kelley having joined Mrs. Hinckley in Paris after a visit to the lake of Iky, Scotland.

Ambassador Carlos Davila, of Chile, took his place at the table with customary poise. He had returned from New York and Atlantic City particularly to attend the meeting. He smiled pleasantly at friends, and blinked affably at the camera men. Noted for the smartness of his appearance, he maintained his reputation. There was not a wrinkle in his open-face collar, his London cravat, or the neatly fitted, light blue fitting coat. The Spanish Ambassador, Don Alejandro Padilla, absent in California, was represented by Jose M. Linares-Rivas, who, too, seemed quite untroubled by the rigors of black breadcloth.

For the most part, diplomatic handkerchiefs remained correctly protruding from breast pocket. Diplomatic etiquette restrained the lesser dignitaries from betraying the extent of their suffering. Curiously enough, the envoys from the warmer countries—fruits of the tropics and the subtropics—who were patently charmed at the heat, Charge d'Affaires P. O. de Tranchesi, of Denmark, for instance, showed no annoyance. Once the shadow of a grain flitted across his eyes, he winked at the sight of a worried South American negotiating with his high collar. Scandinavia was altogether at home.

When he sat on an ambassadorial nose during President Hoover's address there were faint glimmers of the supple, the supple sitting around the green table remained serious and preoccupied. Minister Michael McWhitie, of the Irish, although he was obviously hot, sat contemplatively observing the green cloth before him. Maj. Gen. Prince Amorsal Kridakara, the Siamese Minister, on the contrary, glanced sharply and brightly around, and thereafter kept his eyes fixed on resident Hoover and those about him.

In the entire assemblage there was obvious appreciation of the dignity of the occasion—and its importance.

The members of the C. M. T. C. at Fort Myer, Va., will give a dance Saturday evening. This will be the last entertainment of the July contingent at the camp.

PACKERS MUST DROP UNALLIED HOLDINGS

Supreme Bench Orders Five
Leaders to Get Rid of Stock by October 2.

CASE IN COURTS 10 YEARS

Under the terms of an order signed by Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court yesterday five groups of packers have until October 2 to dispose of their holdings and stock in unallied industries.

The decree of the court follows the recent action of the United States Supreme Court in setting aside the intervenor of the California Canners Co. in the suit brought by the United States against the five groups of packers under the anti-trust laws. The litigation has been in the courts almost ten years.

Representatives of the Department of Justice appeared before Judge Bailey yesterday morning and presented a form of decree which was signed later in the day.

Decree Terms Are Told.

The decree, in addition to giving the packers until October 2 to dispose of their holdings in the unallied industries, orders a judgment on the mandate of the Supreme Court, dismisses leaves for the canneries to intervene, sets aside an order of May 1, 1928, suspending the Supreme Court's motion to vacate the consent agreement of the packers to withdraw from the unallied industries, and denies the California Canners Co. motion to vacate the consent agreement taken on the consent agreement.

Counsel for the Wilson group asked the court to grant a further hearing, but Justice Bailey ruled that the opinion of the United States Supreme Court made it unnecessary. Attorneys for the Swift and Armour group asserted that the packers had been operating for more than four years under the suspension order and asserted that it would take at least a year to adjust business affairs to meet conditions that will result from their withdrawal from the unallied industries.

They stated that they could present evidence which they believed would cause the court to grant such an extension, in event an agreement for additional time is not reached with the Department of Justice.

Allowed Until October 2.

On the plea of counsel for the Wilson and Morris groups that certain persons and firms connected with those groups had not been served with notice of the decree, Justice Bailey allowed them until October 2 to show cause why they should not abide by the terms of the decree.

Justice Bailey also signed a separate order exempting Louis H. Heymann and Edward Morris, two members of the Morris group, from the terms of the decree so long as they do not become or continue to be officers, directors, agents or employees of any of the defendant corporations. The order permits both to continue as directors of the American Food Products Co., which is in the course of liquidation.

Packers affected are Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Morris & Co., Wilson & Co. and the Cudahy Packing Co.

RUSSIA JOINS CHINA IN MEDIATION MOVE

Japanese agency dispatches reported marked lessening of tension at Harbin and also at the border. Bengo messages from Manchull, western terminus of the Chinese Eastern and a trouble center on the frontier, said the Russians and Chinese troops had arranged a kind of "truce" by which both sides withdrew some distance from the actual border line. Manchull was gradually resuming its normal appearance.

Harbin messages reported Russian and Chinese representatives were nearing Harbin for an official conference. Serebriakov, Russian representative sent from Moscow was at Dauria, opposite Manchull. Chu Shao-Yang, former Chinese charge d'affaires at Moscow, was expected shortly at Harbin as the Chinese representative.

Russian Ambassador Troianovsky told reporters it was useless for negotiation to attempt mediation between Russia and China until China had restored the status quo.

It was said authoritatively in Tokyo that no Chinese request for mediation had been received.

A dispatch to Bengo Agency from Harbin tonight said that M. Chirkin, vice chairman of the board of directors of the Chinese Eastern Railroad, had visited the consular body and informed them that he and Consul General Melnikov would leave tomorrow for Moscow.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson conferred yesterday with Ambassador Debutchi for about fifteen minutes on the Sino-Soviet situation after the deposit of Japan's instrument of adherence to the Kellogg-Brand pact for the renunciation of war. Ambassador Debutchi told the Secretary that his impression from information available on the situation would justify optimism.

Woman Takes Poison In Husband's Office

Mrs. Velma Rogers, 19 years old, of 1825 New Hampshire avenue northwest, took poison yesterday morning in her husband's office at 908-910 Fourteenth street northwest, according to Fire Precinct police and Emergency Hospital doctors who took charge of the case.

She was taken to Emergency Hospital, where her condition was reported to be improved. Mrs. Rogers was found on the floor of the office with a bottle of poison at her side. At Emergency Hospital she refused to disclose the reason for her act.

Postoffice Employees to Picnic.

Members of the Postoffice Employees Mutual Welfare Association will hold a picnic today at the country club near Laurel, Md. Baseball, other athletics and dancing will make up the program. Buses leave 301 Rhode Island avenue northwest at 10:30 and 5:30 o'clock.

BOGIE NEARING GOAL IN MISSISSIPPI RACE

Craft, at Cape Girardeau, Has Chance to Beat Record of Robert E. Lee.

FINAL DASH DUE TODAY

Cape Girardeau, Mo., July 24 (A.P.).—Dr. Louis Leroy's speedboat Bogie arrived here at 8:45 o'clock tonight and began refueling immediately. Dr. Leroy expects to make Chester, Ill., the next and last stop on his race from New Orleans to lower the steamship Robert E. Lee's time of 90 hours 14 minutes from there to St. Louis. At 9 o'clock the Bogie had been out nearly 78 hours. Dr. Leroy and his two companions had twelve hours in which to traverse approximately 136 miles between them and their goal and lower the record. He has maintained speeds of from 14 to 18 miles an hour and hoped, barring the ever-present chance of accident, to reach St. Louis for the first time since he made his first attempt four years ago.

Lags Behind During Day.
Memphis, Tenn., July 24 (A.P.).—The end of the third day found Dr. Leroy's speedboat, the Bogie, lagging back of the mark set 50 years ago by the steamship Robert E. Lee, for the run up the Mississippi River between New Orleans and St. Louis. At 3:15 p. m. today, some 72 hours after leaving New Orleans, the Bogie passed Hickman, Ky., well below Cairo, Ill., with Dr. Leroy and his two companions pushing the engine hard in an effort to reach St. Louis before 9:18 a. m. tomorrow morning and lower the record of 90 hours and 14 minutes made by the Lee in 1870 in her race with the Natchez over the 1,160-mile course. The river winds along a course of almost 200 miles between Cairo and St. Louis and this stretch was negotiated by the Lee in a little more than 17 hours.

Final Dash to Tell Story.
Barring further mishap, Dr. Leroy hoped to better the Lee's time in his final dash. Engine trouble at Cahoonville, Mo., this morning held the Bogie nearly an hour and put the speedboat almost three hours behind the time made by the Lee. The trouble developed just after refueling had been completed and the Bogie drifted downstream for several miles before the engine was adjusted. A stop previously had been made at Osceola, Ark., to install a new propeller designed to give greater speed. Last year Dr. Leroy was running ahead of the Lee's time when driftwood broke his boat's propeller 70 miles from St. Louis and ended his third assault on the packer's record.

Millerand Fights Debt Ratification

Most Speakers Ask Pact Approval as French Senate Debates.

Paris, July 24 (A.P.).—Calmly and soberly the French senate today opened its debate upon the bill that would ratify France's war debt settlements with the United States and Great Britain. Most of those who spoke favored ratification. Former President Millerand opposed ratification. He devoted most of his speech to complaining about the Franco-German situation, arguing that there are grave dangers in the plan for early evacuation of the Rhineland and in the German campaign for union with Austria and for wiping out from the treaty of Versailles the admission of responsibility for the World War.

Ross Divorce Decree Reversed in England

London, July 24 (A.P.).—The House of Lords today threw out the divorce decree granted Lady Patricia Ross by Scottish courts against Sir Charles Ross, the rifle inventor, of Balmowan, Scotland. The House of Lords tribunal found that the intermediate decree appealed from by Sir Charles on the question of misconduct should have been reversed.

The Ross divorce case has figured in British courts for two years. Lady Ross, daughter of Andrew Ellison, of Louisville, Ky., instituted proceedings as a sequel to an East African hunting expedition, citing as correspondent Mrs. Ross, K. H. Dalziel, known socially in New York.

$211,000 in Counterfeit Paid for Liquor Cargo

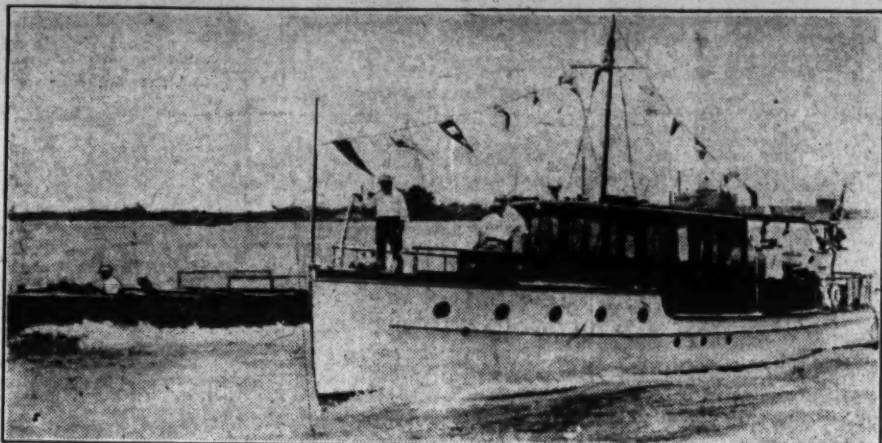

Halifax, N. S., July 24 (A.P.).—The Halifax Herald said today that several men from the United States paid $211,000 in counterfeit for a cargo of liquor from the Nova Scotia schooner Edith Newhall. The buyers went aboard the schooner, then off the coast, paid the money in $50 and $100 bills and took away the liquor. Capt. Wentzell of the Edith Newhall went to a bank in Mahon Bay with $15,000 of the currency, and was informed that the notes were spurious.

U. S. SEEKS CUSTODY OF DRY AID IN DEATH

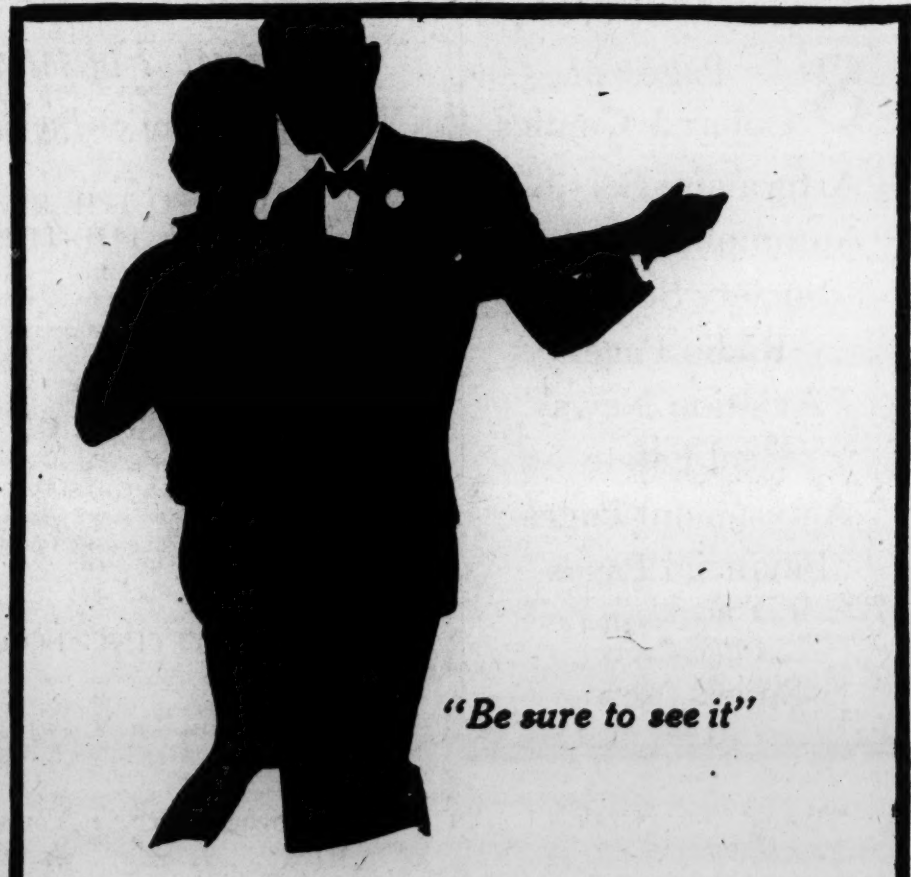

Sheriff Ordered to Turn Over Two Accused of Murder in Raid Killing.

CONTEMPT THREAT MADE

Tecumseh, Okla., July 24 (A.P.).—Federal officers late today served an order on the sheriff of Pottawatomie County directing him to turn over to the jurisdiction of the Federal court two accused of murder in connection with the killing of two Oklahoma farmers during a liquor raid July 4. The order, which was issued by Ed S. Vaughn, judge of the United States district court, was served by two deputy United States marshals, who demanded custody of the two prisoners. The sheriff refused to surrender the men and the deputy marshals then declared they would institute contempt actions against him if he did not comply with the order. After some discussion, the sheriff said he first would confer with the county attorney before deciding on what course of action he would follow. Harris and Thompson are held without bond on State charges of murder in connection with the killing of James C. Harris, a farmer living near Tecumseh, during a raid made by a squad of men under direction of Thompson. Jeff Harris is charged with the murder of Oscar Lowery, James C. Harris' brother-in-law, who also was killed.

English Drought Is Causing Worry

No Cessation in Scarcity of Water Is Seen as Wells Dry Up.

London, July 24 (A.P.).—The great drought in England continued today without a break in sight. Water supply of many towns was strictly rationed. Gt. Yarmouth, had only enough water to last seven days. Halifax, Yorkshire, has a 48-day supply left. In Halifax all supplies have been stopped from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m., saving a million gallons a day. Light rainfall has done little to relieve the situation in Manchester, which has just 26 days' supply in reserve. By appeal for economy in water usage and various devices ten million gallons a day are being saved. Lincolnshire's wells and streams are drying up and water is being taken by car to outlying homesteads.

Mayo Brothers Honored Abroad

Doctor of Laws Degrees Conferred by University at Manchester, England.

Manchester, England, July 24 (A.P.).—Manchester University tonight bestowed the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Drs. Charles H. and William Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., and upon Lord Dawson of Penn. physician to King George. It was the first time that brothers had thus been honored at the same ceremony. The proceedings smacked of medieval pagentry, all participants being clad in academic robes supplemented by brilliantly colored hoods showing the degrees and alma maters of the savants, while the great hall of the university was crowded with eminent members of the medical profession who are here to attend the annual gathering of the British Medical Association. The Mayo brothers and Lord Dawson were conducted to seats of honor at the front of the auditorium. Prof. Alexander, the university orator, greeted the distinguished guests in the name of the university and then led them to the platform where the chancellor presented them with the degrees.

Police Oust Committee At British Labor Office

Twelve Men and Women, Professing to Represent Unemployed, Refuse to Leave Building When Denied Audiences; Protests Shouted, Scuffles Erupt.

London, July 24 (N.Y.W.S.).—Police threw twelve men and one woman, calling themselves the "committee of unemployed workers," out of the ministry of labor office in Whitehall this afternoon when they refused to leave the building after having been denied a hearing by Miss Margaret Bonfield, minister of labor in the MacDonald cabinet.

Yesterday they sent a request to the ministry for an interview with Miss Bonfield which she refused, so today they decided to pay her an unannounced visit. As Big Ben, in the tower of the House of Commons, struck noon they marched in a body through the door of the ministry and upstairs to the board room. There one of the officials of the ministry asked them their business.

Walter Hamington, who called himself national organizer of the unemployed movement, said they wanted to see Miss Bonfield. When this was refused the committee asked to see J. J. Lawson, M. P., parliamentary secretary to the ministry. This was also refused.

The deputation then decided to remain in the board room until one of their requests was granted. So the officials telephoned Scotland Yard, which immediately ordered 30 policemen to go to the ministry and eject the out-of-workers.

The police entered the building in groups of two and three so as not to alarm the people there and later were joined by three inspectors and two sergeants. The inspector asked the deputation to leave and received the reply, "No. You'll have to get us out."

This the police proceeded to do, being obliged to use force in some cases and there were several sharp scuffles. When they were all outside they attempted to hold a meeting in front of the Ministry but finally obeyed the police orders to move away and marched off, led by Hamington.

One man, carrying a baby girl, said he had come from Wales with her to emphasize the distress of the unemployed in his part of the country.

As some of the men were being led away they shouted, "Look how the unemployed are treated. Shameful! Shameful!"

How's this for a hot-weather dinner?

One of these evenings, when you're exhausted from the heat and nothing tastes good, how would you like to sit down to a dinner like this? An ice-cold fruit cup, jellied chicken and ham, a salad of crisp lettuce with a stuffed tomato in aspic. And, for dessert, a strawberry sundae. Tempting, isn't it? And so pleasantly easy to prepare.

All the real work can be done in the cool of the morning. Then your General Electric Refrigerator will do the rest . . . chill new flavor into every course.

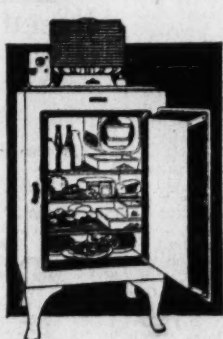

Fifty degrees is accepted by scientists as the "danger point" in the preservation of food. When the temperature rises even a degree or two above that, bacteria multiply, foods become unsafe to eat . . . a positive menace to health. In the General Electric Refrigerator the temperature is automatically kept several degrees below fifty—always. Countless superiorities give the General Electric Refrigerator its outstanding position . . . an hermetically sealed, dust-proof mechanism, mounted on top . . . an accessible temperature control . . . quiet operation . . . no oiling . . . no troublesome machinery . . . simplified installation . . . no radio interference—a two-year guarantee.

Now, in addition to all these proved superiorities, General Electric offers an all-steel cabinet! Beautiful. Non-warping. Strong as a safe. Mounted on legs with broom room underneath. There are now more than 300,000 General Electric Refrigerator users and not one has spent a single dollar for repairs.

Prices on the new all-steel models now start as low as $215 at the factory.

See them at our display rooms.

Tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening 8 to 9 Eastern Standard Time over the N. B. C. network of 42 stations.

TRAFFIC WAR GOES ON; MISHAPS FEWER

56 Arrests Are Made During Daytime While Only One Accident Occurs.

"HIDING" PRACTICE IS HIT

Relentlessly the police continue their war on traffic offenders, and steadily the daily toll of accidents diminishes as a result.

Police yesterday made 273 arrests, while the only accident was one in which a 4-year-old boy, Charles Croninger, of 16 Fifth street northwest, ran from behind a parked automobile in front of his home and was struck by a car operated by R. E. Channahan, of 414 F street northeast, who was absolved of blame for the mishap. The boy was treated for a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries at Casualty Hospital, where it was stated he had a fair chance of recovery.

Motorcycle Policeman R. V. Sinclair led in the round-up of violators of the regulations brought in by the traffic squad. He caught twelve speeders, one of whom also was charged with bad brakes. Motorcycle Policeman K. P. Greenlow, also of the Traffic Bureau, ran Sinclair a close second with ten arrests of speeders.

Objection to what it terms "the practice of traffic officers hiding on side streets without lights and thereby using subterfuge in pursuing motorists for alleged violations of the speed law," was expressed yesterday by Charles P. Clark, general manager of the American Automobile Association, in a letter to Superintendent of Police Henry G. Pratt.

Those engaged in enforcement of the traffic laws should be in full uniform and in plain sight at all times, Mr. Clark declared.

Mr. Clark's objection is stated, in the result of numerous complaints against the practice made to the A. A. A., in which car owners and drivers resenting "the deceptive practices" of the traffic officers.

"Dead" Man Also Rewed, Quiz Shows

Mrs. Alma Marie Gutza, who came to Washington to collect adjusted service insurance on the husband she thought to be dead, and who found herself temporarily in custody as a result of the fact that he is alive, left Washington Tuesday night a few hours after her release on charges of falsifying a claim against the Government and just ahead of a request from Detroit that she be arrested and held for similar charges booked in that city.

Mrs. Gutza also left behind her a marital tangle that is just as complicated as her own. Attorney Harold F. Hawken, who represented her Tuesday in her arraignment before United States Commissioner Neesham C. Tarnage, revealed yesterday.

Mrs. Gutza admitted during her hearing that after she had learned her husband, Floyd Osborne, was dead she married again. Attorney Hawken said yesterday that Osborne also has a second wife, explaining that the commission that when Osborne and the present Mrs. Gutza separated in 1925 he gave her money with which to obtain a divorce. That divorce, Mrs. Gutza told the court, had never been granted, she explaining that she had needed the money for other purposes.

Attorney Hawken explained that Mrs. Gutza and Osborne are both hopeful that she can obtain a divorce from Osborne in the court of Detroit and that each can then remarry to one whom until Tuesday each thought a legal partner.

"The odd part of the whole thing," the attorney said, "is that all this trouble is over $128." That was the sum the woman sought to collect, he said.

Williams Suicide, Is Verdict of Jury Really Firm Secretary Succeeds in Second Attempt on Life.

A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Charles G. Williams, 50 years old, of 5205 Fourteenth street northwest, whose body was found floating in the channel near Hains Park early yesterday morning.

Until the body of Williams was found by harbor police, his whereabouts had been a mystery since Tuesday morning, when he disappeared from Emergency Hospital, where he had been treated for poisoning, marking his first attempt to end his life, police said. Williams admitted that he swallowed the contents of a bottle of poison early Tuesday morning, and that he was feeling blindly along a road in the northwest section of the city.

Williams was secretary of the real estate firm of Williams, Rutherford, Inc., until six weeks ago when he resigned, at the suggestion of his employers, because of failing health and his uncertain mental condition, it was learned. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Young Student Seized In Microscopes Theft

Edward G. Bond, 20 years old, a student, of 109 Elm street, Takoma Park, Md., was arrested yesterday by Detective Sgt. Clement Cox and Bagby King on a charge of investigation in connection with the theft of four microscopes, valued at $112 each from the laboratories at the Washington Sanitarium in Takoma Park.

According to the detectives, Bond sold two of the instruments at a D street (northwest) second-hand shop and was apprehended while disposing of the others at an Alexandria shop. Maryland authorities notified Cox that they would proceed to arrest Bond and appear at police headquarters today.

Two New Groups Start On Two-Week Outings

Two new groups yesterday began two-week vacation periods at Camps Good Will and Pleasant in Rock Creek Park and Blue Plains, respectively. These vacations are furnished free by the summer outings committee, sponsored by the Community Chest.

Physical examinations for Camp Good Will were made by Drs. Arnold McNitt, C. B. Conklin, R. L. DeSauture and John McCausland, dentist, while those for Camp Pleasant were made by Drs. C. A. Tignor, Arthur Simpson, Albert Ridgely, Roy U. Plummer and R. E. Martin. There were about 160 vacationists in each party.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

ANNOUNCEMENT of the retirement of Harry M. Crandall from active participation in the operation of the theaters which he founded, and the designation of John J. Payette as general manager of the Warner Bros. holdings in the Washington territory, serves only to place the stamp of official acknowledgment upon a condition that to all intents and purposes has obtained for the past several years with regard to the former Crandall properties.

When Mr. Crandall disposed of 75 per cent of his interest in the theaters bearing his name in and about the National Capital to the Stanley Co. of America, under the presidency of the late Jules Mastbaum, his major interest was immediately centered in the national activities of the parent company. As a member of the board of directors of the Stanley Co., in several important executive committees of that organization, his duties were transferred to the Payette office of the Stanley Co. of America, where the greater portion of his time has since been spent, only a day or two a week having been devoted to Washington.

Simultaneously with the sale of control of the Crandall circuit to the Stanley Co., the dismantling of the original Crandall organization, under whose guidance the theater chain had developed to proportions of magnitude sufficient to engage the interest of the Stanley Co., was begun, the final gesture in this direction coming a fortnight ago when the Warners abolished the Department of Public Service and Education, in the establishment of which Mr. Crandall was the pioneer in this country.

During all of this period the Stanley-Crandall theaters have been under the personal direction of Mr. Payette, in the capacity of supervisor of theaters, and for many years previously all bookings of attractions for the circuit were in his charge.

It is worthy of note that the retirement of Mr. Crandall has the effect of transferring ownership control of all of Washington's representative, downtown, first-run picture houses to interests outside the Capital.

No longer than twelve years ago, motion picture exhibition in this city was a matter of wholesome competition among amusement enterprises that were wholly Washington-owned.

Tom Moore was actively in the field with the Strand, Garden, Plaza, American and other allied houses, and the Crandall chain, with the old Joy Theater, at Ninth and D streets, as a pivot, was just beginning to reach out into the residential neighborhoods in an important way.

The Fox Palace, Rialto and Metropolitan had not as yet been built, although all were either in course of construction or had been tentatively projected—with the slight exception of the Fox which came years later.

With the present Moore holdings leased to Universal for a term of years and Mr. Crandall retiring, Sidney Lust remains the only chain-theater operator free from entangling foreign alliances. Warner Brothers, Loew, (controlled by Fox, of the Department of Justice says "yes"), Fox and Universal dominating the local scene with aplomb not to mention elan and élan.

All of which comprises an interesting and significant chapter in the history of a sprawling industry constantly and unceasingly in flux.

As exclusively forecast many days ago, the giant Foxer airplane operated by the Fox Movietone News made Washington a port of call last Tuesday, July 23, as part of its program of flying to 50 cities throughout the United States for the purpose of doing its part to make the country air-minded.

The ship is the latest model monoplane, especially designed to accommodate the purposes for which it was purchased—the making of sound news pictures of important people and events. It is named the Elinor Smith, for the noted young aviatrix who broke the world's record for endurance flight for women, and is the first ship of its kind put in operation by any film company. It is in charge of Maj. A. E. Holland and carries a total crew of five, utilizing the facilities of Bolling Field during the Washington stay.

I find it necessary to take issue with my esteemed and erudite contributor, Somers, who he claims credit for having inaugurated inventive interest in the Magnatilm by pointing out obvious defects in the screen version of "The Cocoanuts," starring the Marx Brothers.

Of course, the scurrying around for a means of obviating these difficulties would have been inspired by my own comments upon the flagrantly narrow-angle aspects of "The Broadway Melody," which far antedated "Cocoanuts," except that Adolph Zukor, with Edwin S. Porter, originally started experimenting with the wide film about 15 years ago at the old Famous Players Studios on West Twenty-sixth street in New York.

The results of the experiments, however, were destroyed in the fire that wrecked the building—and almost did the same for Famous—many years ago.

It hardly seems probable that I can be personally indebted to Miss Dolores Del Rio for the charming autographed photograph which I found upon my desk yesterday morning.

It is, however, I have received none from Norma Shearer, whom I did not have the pleasure of meeting, either.

This morning, Johnny Burke, Herbert Rawlinson and the entire "Over the Top" stage unit, appearing at the Palace this week, are putting on their whole show for the entertainment of the disabled veterans at Walter Reed Hospital.

Five new screen bills will be available to local amusement seekers on Saturday, as follows: Metropolitan, Richard Barthelmess, with Alice Day and Lila Lee, in "Drag"; Palace, Charles "Buddy" Rogers, in "The River of Romance"; Fox, Lela Hyams, J. Farrell MacDonald and Clyde Cucke in "Masquerade"; Columbia, Clara Bow and Richard Arlen in "Dangerous Curves"; and Earle Alice White in "Broadway Babies."

All are talkies.

To those who so kindly noted the absence of our name from The Post's review page on Monday, we do not ill-nor yet vacationing—just lazy.

Alleged Policeman Killer Faces Jury

Rites for Gunman's Victim Are to Be Held Today in Capital.

Alfred Aldridge, colored, who is said by police to have fired the bullet which caused the death of Police Harry J. McDonald, of the Third Precinct, was held for action of the grand jury yesterday by a coroner's jury following an inquest into the death of the policeman.

Funeral services for McDonald will be held at 8:30 o'clock this morning with high police and police force and its ranking members as the chief mourners. Services at the residence, 209 Fourteenth street northeast, will be followed by mass at the Holy Comforter Church, Fourteenth and East Capitol streets, at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

McDonald is survived by the widow and three small children.

Special services at the cemetery will be conducted by the American Legion posts of the District, the policeman having been an active member of the Vincent B. Coville post, No. 1,441, at Columbia, Ohio. McDonald was assigned to the Twentieth Company, Engineers, and saw eighteen months' service in France during the war. He was in the major engagements at St. Mihiel. In his honor, the Legion will fire a volley and a bugler will sound taps as the casket is being lowered.

The Chief Constable of Westminster went about his investigation with great deliberation. He ascertained that Mrs. Hayes and her husband quarreled a great deal, and that only a short time before they had had a bitter spat over another man who was paying her attention. He had gone away, it was stated, until the affair "blew over." But he never came back, and in view of the facts and of the severed head the police decided to place Mrs. Hayes under arrest.

Two men were found lurking in the vicinity of the Tyburn road house—James Billings and John Wood—and they were also locked up in the meantime. The police constable had been working in other parts of the neighborhood and they presently found the rest of the mutilated body of John Hayes had been cut into fragments, wrapped in rags and buried in Marylebone Fields.

The Chief Constable of Westminster had not been idle while these discoveries were being made. He had made a careful examination of the house on Tyburn road and he found a series of footprints which led from the back door almost to the place where the mutilated remains were buried. Also he learned that Wood was the more sensitive of the three prisoners. One morning he confronted the man and told him that the evidence which had been obtained was so conclusive that escape was impossible. He advised him to confess and, to his surprise, the man did make a complete confession.

He said the woman had expressed a desire to be rid of her husband, that he and Billings had filled him with liquor and then murdered him. They had mutilated the body in the hope of destroying the evidence, little thinking that the head would be washed up by the muddy waters of the Thames.

W. R. & E. REPLIES ON COMBINE TODAY

Ham Refuses to Talk About Decision Made by Utility Firm's Directors.

NO GREAT CHANGE SEEN

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. today will give the Public Utilities Commission its answer to the commission's invitation to submit a new merger proposal.

The decision of the railway company was reached at the regular meeting of the board of directors yesterday. The meeting was, as usual, behind closed doors and no announcement was made after it had ended.

William F. Ham, president of the company, said that the company believed it would have its answer in the hands of the commission today, but said that he could say nothing beyond that. Pressed for some intimation as to the company decision Ham insisted that "really, there is nothing I can say until the answer has been submitted to the commission."

Little difference is expected to be made in the action of the commission by the company's answer, inasmuch as the Capital Traction Co. early this month told the commission that it saw no reason to submit a new agreement at this time because to do so would be "futile" and waste time and cause more delay than speed in settlement of the merger negotiations.

A few days ago, however, after he had received a letter from Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, taking sharp issue with the Capital Traction views, John H. Hanna, president of that company, called on Chairman Patrick and told him that his company was always ready to consider merger negotiations and that in the course of time another letter would be sent the commission by the company.

Apparently Mr. Hanna sought to soften the record a little so that his company would not be in the position of flatly rejecting any further moves toward a merger of the two street railway companies.

At the time the Capital Traction Co. so abruptly rejected the Utilities Commission's invitation it was generally assumed that both companies held the same view.

Whether the action of the Utilities Commission in taking up the question of unified operation, without corporate merger, of the two street car companies has had the effect of changing the views of the street car officers Mr. Ham would not indicate yesterday. Neither was there any statement to indicate that Mr. Hanna's visit to Patrick presaged a different attitude on the part of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

The action of the utilities commission, the Capital Traction view was submitted, however, puts the street car companies in an entirely different situation than they expected to be in, and it would not be surprising if the Washington Railway & Electric answer given the commission today, which will keep the subject open for discussion.

Long Discussion Looms.

Then, of course, the Capital Traction Co. could accede to the expressed desires of the commission and its brother company and the whole subject could be discussed pro and con for months.

But the Utilities Commission has, in the meantime, made the question of unified operation a part of the street car companies' problem, and it is in a very enviable position, and if they permit the commission to go ahead and order unified operation of the two car lines and effect considerable economies, the companies will have lost much of the bait with which they have sought the fish of popular approval of a merger on terms satisfactory to themselves.

Buses Important Phase.

One of the important points involved is the question of bus operations. Commission experts are not satisfied that the street car lines are responsible for all of the losses suffered by the companies and the commission has announced its purpose to investigate this phase.

A merger of the two street car lines, without taking buses into the deal, would not be very palatable to the street car companies, who have previously pointed out that his company was the largest operator of passenger motor buses in the city, and whatever reply was made to the commission's merger invitation would have to take buses into consideration.

Missing Horse Found In Pound by Detectives

Four days ago, Isaac Sydney, of 307 G street southwest, reported to police that his dark bay horse strayed from a coal yard at Second and G streets southwest.

Detectives Harry Cole and Clarence Talley, of headquarters, launched a search for the animal. Yesterday they found "Old Dobbin" at the District pound. Sydney was informed that it would cost him $1 a day board for each day the horse had been kept at the pound.

Autos to Be Auctioned By Police Department

Forty-one automobiles, now in custody of the Police Department as lost, stolen and abandoned property, will be sold at public auction in the Police Property Yard, Twelfth and Water streets southwest at 10 a. m. on August 1.

Arrangements for the sale are in the hands of Harry M. Duckett, chief clerk of the police force.

Little difference is expected to be made in the action of the commission by the company's answer, inasmuch as the Capital Traction Co. early this month told the commission that it saw no reason to submit a new agreement at this time because to do so would be "futile" and waste time and cause more delay than speed in settlement of the merger negotiations.

A few days ago, however, after he had received a letter from Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, taking sharp issue with the Capital Traction views, John H. Hanna, president of that company, called on Chairman Patrick and told him that his company was always ready to consider merger negotiations and that in the course of time another letter would be sent the commission by the company.

Apparently Mr. Hanna sought to soften the record a little so that his company would not be in the position of flatly rejecting any further moves toward a merger of the two street railway companies.

At the time the Capital Traction Co. so abruptly rejected the Utilities Commission's invitation it was generally assumed that both companies held the same view.

Whether the action of the Utilities Commission in taking up the question of unified operation, without corporate merger, of the two street car companies has had the effect of changing the views of the street car officers Mr. Ham would not indicate yesterday. Neither was there any statement to indicate that Mr. Hanna's visit to Patrick presaged a different attitude on the part of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

The action of the utilities commission, the Capital Traction view was submitted, however, puts the street car companies in an entirely different situation than they expected to be in, and it would not be surprising if the Washington Railway & Electric answer given the commission today, which will keep the subject open for discussion.

Long Discussion Looms.

Then, of course, the Capital Traction Co. could accede to the expressed desires of the commission and its brother company and the whole subject could be discussed pro and con for months.

But the Utilities Commission has, in the meantime, made the question of unified operation a part of the street car companies' problem, and it is in a very enviable position, and if they permit the commission to go ahead and order unified operation of the two car lines and effect considerable economies, the companies will have lost much of the bait with which they have sought the fish of popular approval of a merger on terms satisfactory to themselves.

Buses Important Phase.

One of the important points involved is the question of bus operations. Commission experts are not satisfied that the street car lines are responsible for all of the losses suffered by the companies and the commission has announced its purpose to investigate this phase.

A merger of the two street car lines, without taking buses into the deal, would not be very palatable to the street car companies, who have previously pointed out that his company was the largest operator of passenger motor buses in the city, and whatever reply was made to the commission's merger invitation would have to take buses into consideration.

Missing Horse Found In Pound by Detectives

Four days ago, Isaac Sydney, of 307 G street southwest, reported to police that his dark bay horse strayed from a coal yard at Second and G streets southwest.

Detectives Harry Cole and Clarence Talley, of headquarters, launched a search for the animal. Yesterday they found "Old Dobbin" at the District pound. Sydney was informed that it would cost him $1 a day board for each day the horse had been kept at the pound.

Autos to Be Auctioned By Police Department

Forty-one automobiles, now in custody of the Police Department as lost, stolen and abandoned property, will be sold at public auction in the Police Property Yard, Twelfth and Water streets southwest at 10 a. m. on August 1.

Arrangements for the sale are in the hands of Harry M. Duckett, chief clerk of the police force.

Night Club Idol Over Air Tonight

Olsen and His Musicians
in Coast-to-Coast Network at 7:30; Trial of Lady Jane Grey 8:30;
Detective Story at 8.

Distant stations came in rather faintly last night with a good deal of fading. Nevertheless, listening in was fairly satisfactory.

When George Olsen and his music face the microphone during the half hour of Victor dance music at 7:30 o'clock tonight the popular idol of the night clubs will play a group of his most recent recordings. Now touring the country "in person" Olsen and his musicians will make a flying trip to New York to make their broadcast from Studio WJAF and a coast-to-coast network, including WRC.

Two interesting numbers in the program are "Little Pal" and "Seven-Seven Heaven," from Al Jolson's recent screen production "Say It With Songs." Other selections will be "Reaching for Someone," "Breaking Away," "The Big City Blues," "Just Another Kiss," "We Knew the Secret Again," "Moonlight March" and "Out Where the Moonbeams are Born."

Tonight's program by the Seiberling Singers will inaugurate a series of special summer offerings that will feature prominent vocalists and an orchestra under the direction of Frank Black, during the absence of the Seiberling quartet on concert tour in Europe for the next several weeks. Erva Giles, coloratura soprano, will be the soloist tonight.

The program will open and close with the Hour's new signature, "Seiberling March," composed by Frank Black. Miss Giles will sing "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto" and "Voices of Spring." The singing violin will play "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod. Orchestral selections will include "With a Song in My Heart," from "Spring is Here," "Dance of the Paper Dolls," "Deep River," and "Song of the Flame."

The trial of Lady Jane Grey, who was tried in the Tower of London for high treason, will record for listeners one of the tragic figures of history in the broadcasting of "Historic Trials" at 8:30 o'clock. Lady Jane Grey was only 17 years old when her father elevated her, much against her will, to the throne as Queen of England. She was a political pawn, and knew it. The young King Edward VI had just died. One of his daughters, Elizabeth, who later became the great queen, was then in seclusion. Her half-sister, Mary, known to history as "Bloody Mary," was a contender for the crown. It was the fate of Lady Jane to be the one who was to be the Tower of London, put Lady Jane on trial for her life, and executed her on the Tower Green.

Graham McNamee, Milton Cross, Devora Nadworny and Erva Giles make up the all-star quartet to perform in solo and various combinations with the support of a symphony orchestra under the direction of Cesare Sodero.

A concert by the United States Navy Band, conducted by Lieut. Charles Bentley, will be heard from 8 to 8:45 o'clock through WRC.

Olive Kline will be the guest artist of the concert that the Buffalo City Symphony is presenting at 8:30 o'clock from the Buffalo City Symphony. The Buffalo City Symphony has not been announced. The symphony orchestra, directed by Herbert Straub, will play the "Prelude" from "The Marriage of Figaro," the "Overture to 'William Tell,'" "The Unfinished Symphony," "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 5," "Brahms' 'Prelude in G Sharp Minor,'" "Bach's 'Prelude and Fugue in A Minor,'" and "Fantasy arranged by Gluckman."

"Tracking the Manitou Bank Robbery" will provide the story that True Detective Mysteries is presenting at 8 o'clock. This is a dramatization of the famous Manitou bank robbery that took place some years ago. This hold-up occurred during a blizzard with the bank being the making of a clean getaway. The story of their attack and of the successful man hunt over seven States and two countries will be narrated.

A half-hour concert by the U. S. Marine Band, directed by Capt. Taylor Branson, from the Sylvan Theater, will be broadcast.

Dinner music and the Carlton Hotel orchestra, interrupted at 7:11 o'clock for "Amos 'n' Andy," are the highlights of WJAF's presentation during the early evening hours. The station will be on the air from 7:30 o'clock until noon, with the usual program.

The Hawaiian Melody Boys, Ray Harper, tenor, and Walter Holt, stringed instrument recital are among the features scheduled for WJAF during the evening.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Few Stocks Continue to Advance as Call Loans Rise to 9 Per Cent.

STEL SOARS TO 210 1/4

New York, July 24 (A.P.)—Another forward movement of the stock market was upset by a pinch in call money today, and the list in general closed moderately lower, although a sprinkling of issues continued to advance.

Call loans renewed at 7 per cent, but was successfully moved up to 8, then to 9. This development had been foretold by the money market, and it came as a surprise to many traders, after the frequently reiterated predictions of an easing of money during the latter part of the summer.

Although the money market has managed to make notable headway in the face of tight money in the past, the renewed stringency was rather discouraging. The money market, however, was not expected to be so tight, and the advance in call loans was not expected to be so sudden.

Bankers called $40,000,000 in loans, which was sufficient to send up the call loan rate. Money brokers state that the credit situation remains fundamentally sound, that the 7 per cent rate of the past two days was due to a temporary shortage of funds rather than lack of demand from an influx of new funds. Calling of loans was said to represent the withdrawal of funds both by interior and foreign banks.

Bankers saw little prospect of any substantial improvement in the money situation unless that Federal Reserve liberates credit in considerable volume. The heavy borrowings of the Federal Reserve, negotiated by mid-year settlements, and the drain upon funds resulting from the incompletion of the new currency kept money tight through July. The commercial requirements of the interior and the demand for funds abroad are expected to keep money rather scarce during coming weeks.

The day's industrial news continued favorable, and the market reacted to the demand for steel as not lacking, there is no indication of a customary summer recession. Most of the earnings statements coming to hand were excellent, notably those of Southern Pacific, and the leadings report for the second week of July gave evidence of a continued high level of distribution.

Some Issues Bid Up Sharply.

Bonds of the steel, rail, utilities and communication issues were bid up sharply. U. S. Steel reached a new peak at 210 1/4, but closed at 208, off more than a point. American Telephone and Telegraph, a strong stock, rising more than 8 points to a new top at 257 1/2, and closing at 256 1/2. The stock of the Boston and Maine climbed about 16 points to a new high price, and Baltimore and Ohio Erie reached new record levels.

Some of the railway equipments were well bought. P. O. & Co. reached a new high price, and the American Bank advancing in response to report that Goldman Sachs had purchased a large block. General Electric, a stock which reached new highs on resumption of preferred dividends.

General Gas & Electric A was a strong spot in the utilities, rising more than 6 points from the 100-point mark for the first time in 1929, and closing at 106 1/2. The stock of the Pacific Light & Heat, a utility, rising more than 8 points to a new high price, and closing at 106 1/2. The stock of the General Electric, a utility, rising more than 8 points to a new high price, and closing at 106 1/2.

Aviation Under Pressure.

Aviation stocks were under marked pressure. United Aircraft and Curtiss, leading stocks, fell 3 to 4 points. Several stocks, including United Aircraft and Curtiss, fell 3 to 4 points. Several stocks, including United Aircraft and Curtiss, fell 3 to 4 points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, July 24 (A.P.)—A favorable view of the weekly weather report and a belief that it might forebode continued high prices for cotton, caused the market to rise sharply today. After selling up to 12 1/2, October contracts, but steady at the figure and closed at 12 1/2. The market was steady at the figure and closed at 12 1/2.

Foreign exchanges held generally steady, although sterling lost some of yesterday's gain, the cable rate declining to 80.85-16.

BURKE HURLS NATS TO 3-2 LEAD IN FIFTH OVER CHICAGO

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, July 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.). If the national golf amateur at Pebble Beach, Calif., in September is as big a flop as it seems to be, Counselor Jones, of Atlanta, will be in a muddle. For the great majority of them, there was not even the probability of enjoying even a thought of journeying across the continent to compete for a trophy which Counselor Jones had announced he also would seek.

Very few of them could extract any nourishment from the contemplation of an expenditure of a month's time and $1,000 cash merely for the privilege of trailing the portly Counselor Jones over 72 holes of golf in California. For the great majority of them, there was not even the probability of enjoying even a thought of journeying across the continent to compete for a trophy which Counselor Jones had announced he also would seek.

Singer Stops Rout in 2 Rounds

Referee Halts Uneven Bout; Weight Saves Title of Loser.

Feather Champion Is Floored 3 Times by New Yorker.

BROOKLYN, July 24 (A.P.).—Al Singer, of New York, won from Andre Routis, of France, world featherweight champion, in a technical knockout in the second round of a ten-round bout here tonight.

Three times the second round Routis was floored by Singer's crackling right hand punches before the referee stopped the fight to save the game little Frenchman. At no time was the featherweight champion able to make the least impression on the heavy New Yorker.

Singer Clinches His Fate in Loss.

Before losing his heavy gun, Singer stopped Routis' wild rushes by locking the French boy tight in clinches. Once certain of Routis' style, Singer cut loose and the fight was soon over. The Bronx flash measured Andre several times with right hands in the first round, but sought only to find range.

Harvard Player Dies Of His Polo Injuries

Norwood, Mass., July 24 (A.P.).—James P. Mandell, Harvard polo player, died last night from injuries suffered in collision with George O. Clark, of Cleveland, last night.

Financial Prowess Lurks In Star Athlete.

Wall Street athletic fans who have sent an emissary to London to sound out Lombard street on the possibility of arranging an international track and field meet between the teams representing the two great financial centers realize their object.

"Greasy" Neale Named As Southworth's Aid

St. Louis, July 24 (A.P.).—President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals announced today that "Greasy" Neale, Cardinals manager, will go to the Rochester Club of the International League as coach under the shift that has sent Billy Southworth to the Boston Braves.

Frequency of Home Runs Turns Cheers to Yawns

Wallop Is Robbed of Drama Now by Glo-ri-fied Bunt.

Cravath's 24 Circuit Clouts in 1915 Composed a Feat.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 24.—Your correspondent has not yet reached the stage at which one begins to write the reminiscences of a busy life, but to illustrate the difference between the game of baseball in the major leagues at present and the game as it was when the pitchers served the old national ball, the home run records of 1915 and certain ensuing years will serve as a basis.

Cravath's 24 Circuit Clouts in 1915 Composed a Feat.

That was the season in which Cactus Cravath, of the Phillies, batted 24 homers out of bounds, most of them over the short field wall of his home yard and created a mighty stir. The statisticians went to their record books that fall and came up with the information that this was a big thing to have done, even for a man spending half his time on a lot with a short field wall, because the greatest previous number had been 23, hit by Ed Williamson of one of the old Chicago teams in 1883. As modern baseball dated from about 1900, Mr. Williamson's record was looked upon as an unconventional one. The players of this time wore high-top shoes and carried their beards in hair nets.

National League More Partial to Home.

So it was reasonable to suspect that the character of the ball, the pitching and the whole game had changed considerably in 22 years. That was the case. Mr. Williamson was credited with the greatest number of home runs in a single season of the era of chaos and Mr. Cravath was acknowledged as the mightiest hitter of modern times to date.

French Fear U.S. Pair in Doubles

French Captain Sees Allison-Van Ryn Troupe Pros.

Tilden and Lott Show Fine Form in Practice for Singles.

PARIS, July 24 (A.P.).—America's college tennis team of Johnny Van Ryn and William Allison have set the French to worrying about the outcome of the Davis Cup doubles to be played Saturday, following the opening singles battles of the challenge round Friday.

French Captain Sees Allison-Van Ryn Troupe Pros.

After watching the "two kids" lambast the visiting doubles out of Karl Kozeluh, the world's ranking professional, and Martin Fajia, French pro, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0 today, Pierre Gilchrist, the French captain, ordered out the "J" guard, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, who paired together in doubles practice. They offered Jacques Brugnon and Christian Bussu a handicap of two games per set, which Brugnon scornfully refused and then went out to take a three to nothing lead over the French ace.

Tilden and Lott Show Fine Form in Practice for Singles.

Cochet and Borotra, however, put on a little more speed and won the set 6-4. Then they came back to take the second 6-1. After watching the American youngsters perform Gilchrist said:

Winning Run Scored for Nationals on Cissell's Misplay.

Thomas Defeated in Duel After Gaining 1-Run Lead.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (A.P.).—The error of the day was made by Chisox, who held his place on the sixth rung of the ladder by besting the White Sox yesterday, 8 to 3, in a game which kept the fans sitting on the edge of their seats until the final out was turned in.

Error Costly To Chisox In 8th.

It was pitching duel between Bob Burke, rookie southpaw, who registered his third triumph in a row, and Alphonse Thomas, although each allowed eight hits, it was the fine fielding behind the Washington youngster which enabled him to gain the verdict, coupled with Cissell's error in the eighth, which allowed what proved to be the winning run to score.

A fine stop by Myer saved a run in the fourth. Cronin's great back-hand catch of Shires' drive toward third saved another in the fifth, while Sammy West, in center field, sent a tributed nothing in both quantity and quality, two of his catches bordering on the sensational. Incidentally, Burke also helped himself by pitching out of several mighty ticklish situations.

PRINCE TOY-NIGHT EXTRA IN IDEAL HEAT AT EMPIRE

Fans Witness Thrilling Finish

Prince Toy Comes Up on Inside to Gain Share of Purse.

Polydor, at Odds-on, Passes Field in Stretch to Win.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK. N. Y., July 24 (A.P.).—The first dead heat of the New York racing season occurred in the opening event, when J. P. Louchheim's Prince Toy and R. T. Wilson's Night Extra came to the finish on even terms, and the placing judges were unable to separate them, declaring the race a dead heat.

It was a thrilling finish with both horses fighting it out gamely. Night Extra went into the lead on the stretch turn, while Prince Toy slipped through on the inside. The latter closed gamely and was up to finish on even terms with Night Extra.

William Ziegler's Polydor, odds-on favorite and carrying top weight of 126 pounds, won the Pleading Stake here today. It was his first start since Belmont Park meeting. Polydor was reported to have worked 6 furlongs in 1:12, which accounted for the plunge on him. Naskan, an added starter, jumped into the lead, while Polydor dropped back. However, at the far turn, Garner, who had the mount, rushed him up on the outside, and, taking command in the stretch, won easily by a length and a half over Naskan, which beat Chastrot four lengths for the place.

Try Too Wins Drive With Alimony.
Arlington Park Race Track, Ill., July 24 (A.P.).—The Warm Stable's brown colt, Try Too, won the Hyde Park Stake, the feature of the card here this afternoon. Alimony, from the Salsburg Stable, making his second start, finished second. Morel, from the Le Mar Stock Farm, was third. Ten horses started. The race was a dash of 3/4 mile for 2-year-olds colts and geldings and carried a net value of $3,250 and the winner, Try Too, won by a length and a half from Alimony, which beat Morel three lengths for the place.

Try Too, away slowly and slightly outrun first four furlongs, then moved entering the stretch and in a hard drive overhauled Alimony and won by half a length. Alimony was sent into the lead at the start, made the pace to the last furlong where he weakened, but failed to take the place by a length. Morel, who was pinched back shortly after the start then moved up fast and held on well to take third by a length and a half from Stock Market. The latter ran an even race. The winner paid $26.06 for a $2 mutuel.

A new track record for the six furlong was established in the third round, when the Blackthorn Purse, when Brown Wisdom clipped one-fifth of a second from the former track record.

The weather continued clear and the track fast.

QUASHED TOWN BUILDING DISPUTE

New Act Supersedes Town Ordinance, Mount Rainier Attorneys Assert.

CHARGES ARE DROPPED

Claiming that the park and planning act supersedes the town ordinance, Attorneys Charles B. Calvert and Arthur C. Keefe, counsel for William F. Keys, contractor and member of the Maryland House of Delegates, yesterday filed a motion to quash the charge of violating a town building ordinance which had been preferred against Keys by Mount Rainier town officials.

The motion was filed yesterday in Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court when a hearing of the charges was scheduled before Judge J. Chew Sheriff, after having been transferred from the court of Justice of the Peace Robert Joyce, in Mount Rainier, at the request of counsel for the defense.

In connection with the arrest in the building permit case, four charges of disorderly conduct had been filed on involving Mayor John H. Beall, sworn out by Keys, following an altercation over the arrest. Warrants also were sworn for Charles B. Calvert, defense attorney; F. Fred Johnson and James E. Degges, the latter two being the owners of the disputed building.

Both Sides Drop Charges.

Trial of the disorderly conduct charges was scheduled for yesterday afternoon. Calvert rose when the court called the cases for trial and declared that he believed it would be an imposition to ask the court to try such small cases that were merely personal disputes in connection with the main issue and offered on behalf of his client to drop the charges against the mayor if the other side would do likewise. Bird H. Dolby, corporation counsel of Mount Rainier, following a conference with the town officials, then declared that the mayor and other officials would be glad to drop the charges.

Judge Sheriff then declared himself well satisfied with the spirit shown by both sides in offering to withdraw the charges and dismissed the cases. The building permit row grew out of an effort by Keys and Dolby to build an addition to a building in Mount Rainier which they expect to open as an eating house. A permit was obtained by the contractor and Keys from the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, but the town officials refused to issue a town permit, claiming that part of the ground was the property of the town.

Alteration Ensnared.

Keys proceeded to begin the building work regardless and was arrested by Town Officers. The alteration followed from the disorderly charges grew. The case was presented for trial before Justice of the Peace Joyce two weeks ago but defense counsel asked for a change of venue, declaring that they did not believe their client could receive a fair trial in Mount Rainier. The change of venue was granted by Judge Joyce, who declared that he agreed with the town officials.

Keefe, in presenting his request that the charges be quashed, declared that the town ordinance is in opposition to the park and planning act, which establishes the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission as the governing authority of the metropolitan area of the county and made the principal Georges county commissioners the final arbiters in zoning and building disputes. He further charged that the ordinance prescribed a penalty which is in excess of that permissible under the town charter. He read the charter, which provided that anyone failing to pay fines imposed in building violations should serve not more than 30 days in jail in default of fine. The ordinance provided that anyone who failed to pay the fine should serve in jail until the fine is paid. Keefe declared that under the provisions of the charter, anyone who kept there for the remainder of his life if he failed to pay the fine. Judge Sheriff allowed the defense counsel one week to file a brief in support of their motion to quash and a second week will be set for the prosecution for the preparation of rebuttal.

2,000 Delegates Jam Auditorium

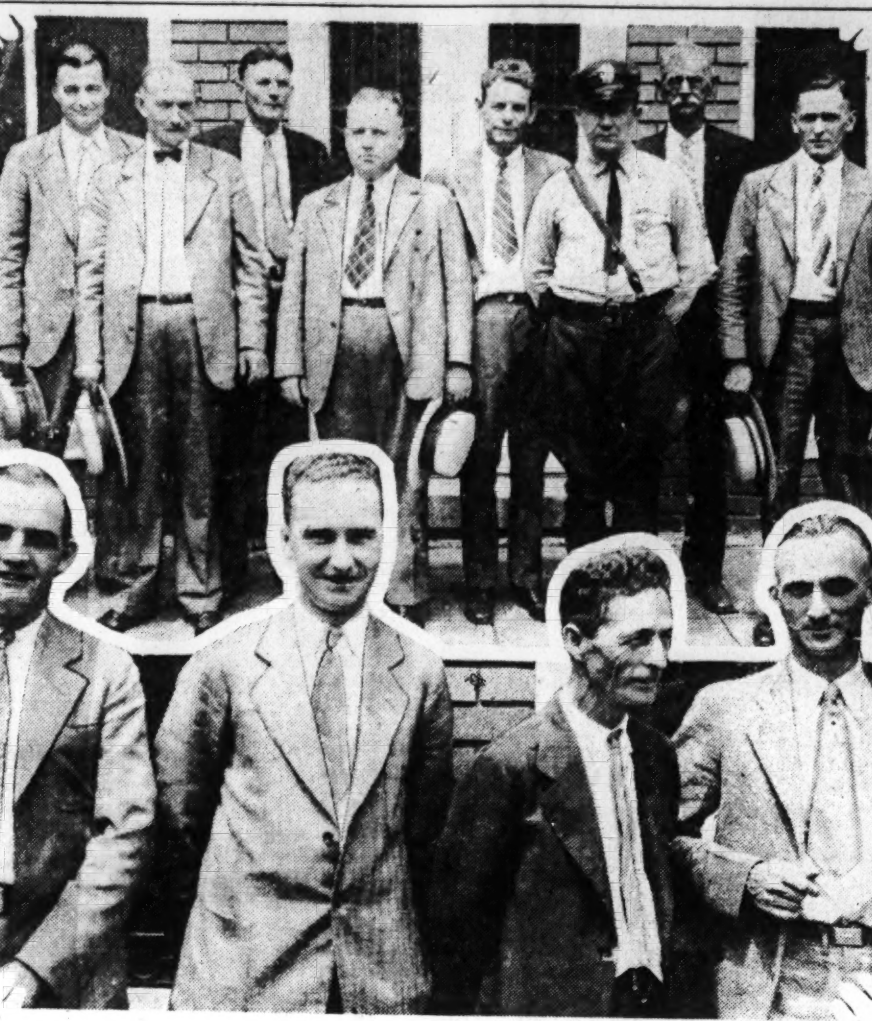

Young People From 57 Presbyteries Assemble in Maryland

Special to The Washington Post. Mountain Lake Park, Md., July 24. More than 2,000 delegates, representing 57 Presbyteries from Coast to Coast, jammed the auditorium last night at the opening of the annual convention of the Young People's Christian Union of the United Presbyterian Church, Nine-tenths of the delegates arrived by automobile. The convention was called to order by the Rev. Dr. Robert Allen Pollock, of Denver, Colo., chairman of the national committee of the organization, who made the opening address. The feature of the session tonight was the presentation of a resolution to be sent to President Hoover commending his campaign for law enforcement. It contained criticism of newspapers for the alleged manner of playing up the "few abuses in which youth figures, in comparison to the right stand and right living of the vast majority of young people." A copy of the resolution is to be sent to the President. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Heinz, of Chicago, are in charge of the singing.

COSTS OF PRIMARY TO STATE DISPUTED

Virginia Democratic Leaders Point Out Candidates Pay All Expenses.

ANSWER DR. HEPBURN

Special to The Washington Post. Winchester, Va., July 24.—The assertion of the Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Virginia Antislavery League, in a statement a few days ago that the Democratic primary in August would be a heavy charge on the State, was challenged today by Democratic leaders here, who claimed to be familiar with the primary election laws of the State. Mr. Hepburn's assertion was made in connection with a statement in which he advised anti-Smith Democrats and other constituents to participate in the primary and vote for who ever they desired. He stated that the primary would be a heavy charge on the State, and that the State would be required to pay the expenses of the primary. Running on the same ticket with candidates for governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general in Winchester, it was pointed out by the primary here, or elsewhere in the State where local officers also are to be nominated, there is no cost to the State if the law has been complied with to require the candidates to pay their assessment, which probably is done in every instance. Thus, it was pointed out, the cost of the primary here, or elsewhere in the State where local officers also are to be nominated, there is no cost to the State if the law has been complied with to require the candidates to pay their assessment, which probably is done in every instance. With regard to State offices, the primary laws prescribe that before any person may have his name placed on the primary ticket he must pay to the State auditor 2 per cent of the salary for the first year. In the case of a candidate for governor, his salary being $5,000 a year, he is required to pay $100 into the State treasury as his share of the primary expense. Thus, it was pointed out, the cost of the primary here, or elsewhere in the State where local officers also are to be nominated, there is no cost to the State if the law has been complied with to require the candidates to pay their assessment, which probably is done in every instance.

Short Court Term Is Held at Luray

Absence of Liquor Cases Causes Briefest Session in History.

Luray, Va., July 23.—When the Page County court convened in Luray today for the July term, the shortest session ever known was held. In all former terms for many years the docket has been congested on account of the large number of cases growing out of alleged liquor law violations. Today's term failed to develop a single one of these cases. During an active campaign that has been waged for the last year against liquor law violators here by a well known official of the Virginia prohibition department, who a few months ago was transferred to another part of the State, hardly a day went by without some one being arrested or several houses being searched for liquor. The present term of the court has been the least expensive to tax payers of any held for a long time.

Infantile Paralysis Reported

Lynchburg, Va., July 24 (Special). State health authorities today advised the health bureau here that Mary Adkinson, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Adkinson, of this city, is a victim of infantile paralysis in Richmond. The child has been visiting her grandfather, P. S. Adkinson, for ten days and authorities here think the contagion was of Richmond origin rather than here. There have been no infantile paralysis cases here this year.

FLOOD PREVENTION WORK IS STARTED

$200,000 Will Be Spent to Control Potomac Near Cumberland

RETAINING WALLS BUILT CITES LEGISLATIVE WORK

Special to The Washington Post. Cumberland, Md., July 24.—Work has been started on the flood prevention project by the Cumberland Contracting Co. on the Ridgeley, or West Virginia side, of the Potomac River at the canal dam. Already $75,000 has been spent in dredging upper Will's Creek, which passes through the heart of the city, emptying into the Potomac here. Large retaining walls were built on the left bank of the creek above the Market Street Bridge. Most of the damage here has been caused by the river backing up into the creek. The total cost of the work will be $200,000.

Excavation of the river bank for the erection of concrete walls and steel flood gates has started. A large gas-driven shovel is used in excavating the river bottom on the right-of-way, purchased by the city. This rich loam is much in demand for gardens and fills.

The project of land is to be removed, allowing a wide scope for the river to flow in time of high water and relieving much of the current of the sand bar projecting from the river into the Potomac here. In times of low water stage an additional quantity of water will be impounded and kept at the dam level.

There is belief among engineers that the raising of the gates in times of extreme high water in the river will have a tendency to clean out of the accumulated muck of over half a century back of the dam as well as the sand bar projecting from the river into Will's Creek. It is thought in several years the pool impounded by the dam will be more or less cleaned and the depth of the water increased. The dam will also be lengthened approximately 100 feet.

The work of lower river dredging will begin in August. A temporary railroad track, standard gauge, will be built by the Cumberland Contracting Co. with switches to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal bank, where material from the river will be distributed along the river bank for a considerable distance, reinforcing the canal and river banks. A special excavation shovel and drag will be used to haul the muck out of the river. In addition to this, much of the lower river for a considerable distance will be brushed and Smith's Island will be denuded of timber. The channel below the dam will be widened and deepened.

Special to The Washington Post. Richmond, Va., July 24.—Miss Nora Houston, one of the leaders of the suffrage movement in Virginia, and conspicuous for her energetic work in behalf of all recent welfare movements, today declared her intention to vote for Senator G. Walter Mapp, for the gubernatorial nomination in the Democratic primary and to support his candidacy.

Miss Houston has been legislative chairman of the Virginia League of Women Voters since its inception, and in that capacity has had opportunity to follow the career of Senator Mapp with whom she worked in behalf of the legislation favored by the league for the benefit especially of women and children.

In her statement Miss Houston says in part: "I feel Virginia should be proud of the candidates for Governor who are running in the Democratic primary. The fact that all three were advocates of woman suffrage is of special interest to many of us. I therefore gave much thought to my decision."

"My principal reasons for voting for Mr. Mapp are my knowledge of and belief in his initiative, his statesmanship, his generalship and his executive ability, and because he is an arduous worker. I have seen him at work on the floor of the Senate, winning people to his way of thinking, confirming the cooperation of his friends, convincing the doubtful and winning his enemies to a fair-minded consideration of his bills and to fair play in the technicalities of parliamentary procedure. I have seen his judicial manner in his good-natured meeting of an enemy in a debate upon the floor, and I have seen him carry work through, as well as to obtain for it the friendship of administrations of varying viewpoint."

She worked closely with him during his leadership of the suffrage campaign in the Senate and it was then that I came fully to appreciate his methods of work. Finally, in 1922, as a member of the children's code commission, I was in position to observe his high standard of organization of the forces in the General Assembly, due to which in large part a series of laws for the benefit of the children of Virginia a welfare code equalled by few States."

Lambs Increase In West Virginia

15 Per Cent More Produced Than During Last Year, Survey Reveals.

Special to The Washington Post. Martinsburg, W. Va., July 24.—An estimated 525,000 lambs were produced on West Virginia farms this year, an increase of 15 per cent above the 455,000 raised in 1928, 22 per cent above the 429,000 in 1927, and 46 per cent above the 359,000 in 1926, according to a report of the West Virginia Crop and Live Stock Reporting Service, made public today. The estimates are made from returns from surveys made in connection with the Postoffice Department and rural postoffices of the State.

The survey covers several hundred farms throughout the State each year and shows that the number of lambs saved per 100 ewes was 127.7, as against 112.8 last year. In addition to the slight increase caused by the higher percentage of lambs saved this year there has been a marked increase in the number of ewes on farms as compared to preceding years.

The number of breeding ewes over 1 year old on farms of the State on January 1 this year was estimated at 428,000 head, against 400,000 on January 1, 1928; 381,000 on January 1, 1927, and 363,000 on January 1, 1926.

Directors of Staunton Association Relected

Special to The Washington Post. Staunton, Va., July 24.—Directors of the Community Building & Loan Association of Staunton, Inc., were re-elected for another year at the first annual meeting of shareholders. They are Thomas H. Russell, Hilmer L. Oyer, J. E. Russell, Jr., Marshall S. Oyer, J. C. Woodward, J. C. Fulton, Frank McCue, Gilpin Wilson, Jr., William H. East, W. Stuart Moffett, S. J. Cline, Thomas E. Nelson, John B. Bell, F. C. Hamer and William S. Bryan.

Old Staunton Home Yields to Progress

Special to The Washington Post. Staunton, Va., July 24.—This city's business section is about to say good-bye to the last colonial residence within its area. The S. Godfrey Hendrix property, on West Beverly street, has been sold to Mrs. James H. Woodward for a sum in excess of $15,000. The new owner will erect a three-story modern business structure, providing six storerooms on the ground floor and twenty office suites on the two floors above. The lot is 132 by 147 feet. In the rear of the building storage space for automobiles will be provided. Work of excavating the site will begin at once, and the mansion will be razed as soon as the Hendrix family can vacate.

West Virginia Meeting Speakers Announced

Special to The Washington Post. Franklin, W. Va., July 24.—H. M. Calhoun, president of the Seneca-Seneca-Holy Association, has announced the annual meeting upon the newly acquired grounds at Mouth of Seneca August 8.

Frank L. Bowman, member of Congress from this district; C. L. Perkins, forest supervisor; W. E. Hedges, chief land examiner of the West Virginia Game, Fish and Forest Commission; Nat T. Frame, director of the Extension Division, West Virginia University, are announced as among the speakers.

VIRGINIA HAS FEW TUBERCULAR COWS

Maryland Average, However, Is High, According to Official Tests.

EFFECTS ON INDUSTRY

Richmond, Va., July 24 (A.P.).—Reactions to tests for bovine tuberculosis occurred in only four-tenths of 1 per cent of Virginia cattle examined the month of June. H. C. Gliven, of the State agricultural department, says in his monthly report. Out of 14,501 cows examined in 8,310 herds, the inspectors found 68 cow that reacted positively.

This average for Virginia is far below that for a country as a whole, approximately 2 per cent of the 966,069 head of cattle examined in the United States showing reactions of a positive character. This shows bovine tuberculosis to be only about one-fifth as prevalent in the Old Dominion as in the country as a whole.

West Virginia with reactions in 11 per cent and North Carolina with reactions in 3 per cent of the cattle tested, were ahead of the Old Dominion, but tuberculosis in cattle in Maryland was much more prevalent than in Virginia. Maryland showed reactions to tests in 518 cattle out of 15,067 tested, or positive reactions in 3.4 per cent of the tests.

The relative freedom of Virginia cattle from bovine tuberculosis is regarded by State officials as an incentive to the cattle industry, which has assumed large proportions in some sections, especially the southwest. Almost 100,000 head of cattle in over 20,000 different herds have been tested free in Virginia, and 30,000 cattle in 1,200 herds have been fully accredited—or twice tested without positive reactions being found among them.

Incubator Concern in Virginia Is Sold

United Reproductions May Build Radio Speakers at Harrisonburg.

1926 PRICE $1,500,000

Special to The Washington Post. Harrisonburg, Va., July 24.—The plant of the Buckeye Incubator Co. here today became the property of the United Reproductions Corporation of Virginia, which is planning to build radio speakers at Harrisonburg.

The United Reproductions Corporation, which only last week was granted a certificate of authority to do business in Virginia, has taken over the various Buckeye manufacturing plants in half a dozen States, and is supposed here to be a holding company. The United Reproductions Corporation, which only last week was granted a certificate of authority to do business in Virginia, has taken over the various Buckeye manufacturing plants in half a dozen States, and is supposed here to be a holding company.

Buckeye Incubator Co. of Springfield, Ohio, purchased the Newborn Giant Incubator Co., which was locally owned here, in March, 1926, for a reported price of $1,500,000. Buckeye has since operated the plant for the manufacture of incubators.

Funeral Services Held For Maryland Pastor

Special to The Washington Post. Cumberland, Md., July 24.—The funeral of the Rev. David Philip Theodorick, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Grifton, and one of the best known members of the West Virginia Synod, was held here today at the church. The Rev. W. P. Cline, of Grace Church, Fairmont, president of the West Virginia Synod, officiated at the service. The sermon was by the Rev. Simon Snyder of the First Lutheran Church, Wheeling, a former president of the West Virginia Synod.

Mr. Crickenberger was a native of Virginia. He served the Lutheran Church at Dubois, Pa., for eight years and was then at Bridgeport, Ohio, for eight years, coming to Grifton eleven years ago. He taught in several colleges in his early career.

Stunts on Motorcycle Result in $15.50 Fine

Special to The Washington Post. Berkeley Springs, W. Va., July 24.—LaFont Unger will probably do his training as a trick motorcyclist in an open field in the future. He paid $15.50 in the court of Justice Unger here for crashing into an automobile driven by Attorney J. Hammond Siler, on his motor cycle.

In addition to the fine he is nursing a badly cut knee. The Siler car was not seriously damaged.

Burning Man Saves Life By Plunging Into Pond

Special to The Washington Post. Winchester, Va., July 24.—J. Herbert Brumback, who was burned about the face, head, arms and legs by powder flames several days ago while blasting tree stumps near Middletown, was reported slightly improved today at a local hospital. His present condition is such that a pond of water nearby while his clothing was ablaze probably saved his life, doctors said.

Contracts for Drawing School Plans Awarded

Special to The Washington Post. Harpers Ferry, W. Va., July 24.—Frampton & Bowers, school architects, Huntington, W. Va., have been awarded contracts for preparing plans for and supervising construction of three schools in Harpers Ferry District, to be built from the proceeds of a $112,500 bond issue approved last month. The schools include a high school here, a grade school at Millville, and a colored school at Bolivar.
